THREE CANDIDATES FOR PRESIDENT ARE SEEN BY GOVERNORS

Roosevelt, Ritchie And Pinchot Expected To Seek Office

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Ind., June 4.—The annual conference of state governors, which broke up today, served to put the presidential candidacies of three men in bold relief against the 1932 political picture.

For the Democratic nomination next year, both Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, made politically important contacts with their fellow governors, who are likely to be influential figures in their respective state delegations, and both governors as well furnished further insight into their developing campaigns.

STIMSON MAY STUDY EUROPE SITUATION ON COMING JOURNEY

Expected To Discuss Questions In Foreign Capitals

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Secretary of State Stimson, ostensibly going to Europe with Mrs. Stimson toward the end of this month on a tourist trip, will make a personal survey of the European situation, both from economic and political points of view.

Declaring he is not going on a political mission, nevertheless, Stimson is prepared for real work of an informal nature, pertaining to his official duties as chief diplomatic officer of the United States.

WANT CHURCH TO DEFINE ATTITUDE

LONDON, June 4.—A resolution demanding appointment of a committee to define the attitude of the Anglican Church toward marriage and divorce was unanimously adopted today at a meeting of the Canterbury convocation in Westminster Hall here.

The resolution proposes that the committee be appointed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang, and states that "the church can drift no longer; the time has come for a full inquiry."

The bishop of Salisbury, a bachelor, denounced the church's "collusion" in divorce, demanding a rule whereby the church would refuse to re-marry divorcees whose first husband was still living.

Mortimer Schiff, Banker, Dies

SUCCUMBS TO HEART ATTACK SITTING IN BED; PLANNED TRIP

Death Is Surprise; Widely Known For Philanthropy

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 4.—Mortimer L. Schiff, banker and philanthropist, died at his home on Sandy Hill Road here today.

His death was a surprise for he was still in the prime of life. He would have been fifty-four years old tomorrow.

He was found dead, sitting up in bed. He had apparently succumbed to a heart attack. When he left his office, with the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb and Co., in New York yesterday he seemed to be feeling unusually cheerful. Late in the afternoon he played golf at Oyster Bay.

Arrangements had been completed for him to leave for abroad next month to join his wife, who is in Europe.

CELEBRITY

Mr. Schiff was quite wealthy. His fortune was variously estimated from $10,000,000 to $50,000,000.

He was born in New York on June 5, 1877. He was graduated from Amherst College in 1896 and five years later was married in New York to Adele G. Neustadt. They had two children, Dorothy and John Mortimer Schiff.

CELEBRITY

After several years in the employ of railroads, Mr. Schiff went abroad and studied banking in London and Hamburg. In 1898 he entered the employ of Kuhn, Loeb and Co. and two years later became a partner in the concern.

Mr. Schiff was the author of a number of pamphlets on taxation, profit-sharing and other economic subjects. He had been a director of the Western Union Telegraph Co.; American and Continental Corporation; the Chemical Bank and Trust Co.; The Chemical National Association, Inc.; The Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad and The Pacific Oil Co.

CELEBRITY

He also had been vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of New York state; a member of the International Committee of Bankers for Mexico and of the New York Foreign Securities Committee of Investment Bankers' Association and of the New York State Commission in regard to legislation for control of security issues.

Mr. Schiff was also vice president of the Boy Scouts of America. He was active in welfare work. At one time he was a member of the executive committee, finance committee and Paris executive committee of the Young Men's Christian Association. He was a member of the executive committee of the United States, the finance committee and of the overseas commission, Jewish welfare board in 1918-19. He served on the committee of eleven of the war department to correlate the work of the army and navy welfare agencies.

CELEBRITY

Mr. Schiff was a member of half a dozen clubs. He was widely known in Wall Street and railroad circles.

CELEBRITY

At each of the capitals there are questions to be discussed in which Stimson has considerable interest, chiefly disarmament and the European economic situation. And not the least, an opportunity will be afforded the European statesmen to sound out the American foreign minister on problems of vital importance to them, in most of which American participation is desired.

With Mussolini, Stimson is expected to discuss the dormant Franco-Anglo-German naval accord negotiations, together with the collateral questions bearing on the forthcoming Geneva general disarmament conference. This same question, too, will arise in London and Paris because of the realization that unless some acceptable naval accord is attained as among France, Italy and England affecting Mediterranean politics, little progress can be made in general disarmament.

CELEBRITY

Intervened through all meetings with the foreign ministers and prime ministers of these powers, will of course be many seemingly unrelated questions which as long as they remain unsettled, will be obstacles to disarmament. There is the Austro-German customs union proposal; German reparations, including the suggested moratorium; the British proposal to cure the world depression through control of credits, and further development of the central bank idea through the bank of international settlements.

NEWARK, O., June 4.—Still contending that he mistook his victim for a prowler, Leonard Ramsey, 20, today faced first degree murder charges, filed by police, for the shooting of Tolman Shaw, 53.

Authorities awaited a verdict by the coroner before proceeding with the arraignment. Shaw's body, according to police, was found in Ramsey's front yard. Ramsey, however, although admitting the shooting, said he thought Shaw was a burglar and only meant to frighten him away.

YOUTH ACCUSED OF MURDER CHARGE

RICH - WITH $1.11 IN POCKET

Winner Of Derby Prize Under Police Guard; Appoints Manager

BOSTON, June 4.—With exactly $1.11 in his pocket, Joseph Kennedy, 32-year-old odd-job laborer, winner of $154,000 in the Irish sweepstakes on the English derby today found himself the center of trials and tribulations as a result of his newly-gained riches.

Since Kennedy was announced as the holder of a lottery ticket on Cameronian, the winning horse in the English derby, a special police guard was assigned to him, following revelations that gangsters were plotting to "hijack" his winnings.

Kennedy was also worried by the declaration in London by another Joseph Kennedy, an oiler on an American freighter, that he held the ticket on Cameronian. Later word came from London, however, that the oiler had confessed a "hoax."

Kennedy's first act, after dropping on his knees and offering a prayer of thanks in the office of his "boss" at Morgan Memorial, where he heard the race over the radio, was to invest some of his earnings to insure himself of an annual income of $7,000 for life.

This was done through his newly appointed manager, Thaddeus A. Kitchener. Kennedy revealed that he would bring his wife and three children to the United States, from Jamaica. He laid plans for a fine education for his children, and for himself.

Cedarville Holds Cedar Day Program Wednesday

Under threatening skies but with nearly 2,000 persons looking on, Miss Sarah Rumbaugh was crowned "Cedar Queen" at Cedar Day exercises, annual frolic of Cedarville College's commencement week, Wednesday morning on the college campus.

The 1931 Cedar queen, a pronounced brunette, was crowned by Miss Lucille Tanner, Xenia, the 1930 queen, following a traditional custom.

A slight shower sprinkled the grassy campus just as the festivities were about concluded, but the program was not interrupted, although a few persons hastily sought shelter.

Miss Rumbaugh, a member of the 1931 graduating class, was elected Cedar queen by popular vote of her classmates. She shared the day's honors with Robert Collins, selected by the senior class to deliver the annual Cedar oration. His subject was "Supremacy."

MAN SEVERELY HURT BY BLAST MYSTERIOUSLY

Denies Knowledge Of Cause; Explosion Being Probed

COLUMBUS, O., June 4.—With his right hand blown away, both eyes badly burned, and a hole in his right shoulder, Ray Campbell, 30, of Westerville was rushed to Grant Hospital here today suffering critical injuries he said he received in a mysterious explosion while he was swimming near his home.

Four companions who brought him to the hospital hurried away in an automobile despite attempts of nurses to detain them for questioning by police.

Declaring he wanted to turn off his motor the man who brought Campbell into the emergency room went to his automobile and swiftly drove away with his three companions, nurses said.

Unwilling to believe Campbell's story of an early morning swimming expedition, police declared he probably was hurt while dynamiting for fire.

Dynamite caps and fuses were found in his clothing, they said. Campbell, however, reiterated that he did not know the cause of the blast.

Authorities also said his injuries might have been caused by an explosion during the blowing of a safe, and said they would quickly investigate reports of any such blasts in this section.

VILLAGE MERCHANT IS MYSTERIOUSLY KILLED BY FALSE "CUSTOMER"

Store Owner Lured From Home; Probers Lack Clues

BUCYRUS, O., June 4.—Posing as a customer, a stranger lured Sherman H. Stevens, 65-year-old Tiro feed store operator, from his home late last night, instantly killed him with two revolver shots, and fled without leaving a trace of a clue or a possible explanation for the murder, Crawford County authorities learned today.

Stevens' 60-year-old wife, who protested when he left the house to serve the late caller, found his body lying near the store after she heard three revolver shots.

Investigators immediately abandoned a robbery motive for the killing after they found that $65 in cash remained in his clothing untouched by his assailant.

Authorities were mystified, they said, because Stevens, a former Tiro councilman and former member of the village school board, had no known enemies.

Mrs. Stevens said the late caller knocked at the door of their house about a half-hour after her husband closed his store and locked his gasoline pumps, which he operated in connection.

The man, she said, made a bogus request for some gasoline. Although she did not personally see the caller, she did not recognize his voice, and the man was also a stranger to her husband, she indicated.

Stevens did not return from the trip to the store. Several minutes later his wife, alarmed by the report of revolver shots, ran to the store, about 300 feet away, in search of her husband.

With one shot through the heart and another through the abdomen Stevens was found dead on a sidewalk in front of a business place opposite his store. Beside his body lay three used .32 caliber revolver bullets.

Declaring the shooting a "plain case of murder," Sheriff Fred Vollmer began an immediate investigation but would advance no theories as to the cause of the killing.

The residents, trying to find an explanation, recalled today that a party of strangers drove aimlessly up and down village streets yesterday past Stevens' store. They said the persons might have been acquainting themselves with the surroundings.

BANDITS KILL CREAM VENDOR

CHICAGO, June 4.—Angered because Oscar E. Erickson, driver of an ice cream truck, wanted to serve some customers before he yielded to a stickup, two young bandits today shot and killed him.

A family waiting in an automobile to be served witnessed the shooting which police declared was the most cold-blooded of the year.

Erickson had made no pretense of resistance. One of the robbers hit him in the face and the other said scornfully, "Aw, plug him!" The first bandit shot the defenseless driver through the heart.

After the killing, the bandits fled without taking the small amount, $12.25 which the driver carried.

TWO JOCKEYS HURT IN RACE ACCIDENT

CLEVELAND, June 4.—Two jockeys, injured in a pile up of four horses in the third race at Bainbridge track yesterday, today were reported in a serious condition at Cleveland hospitals. Both, however, were expected to recover.

Charles Callahan, riding Hoops, and Willie Day, up on Bunting Lad, were the injured. Both unavoidably drove their mounts into Krantz Baby and Quetor, two other horses in the race, which had fallen in front of them. Joe O'Malley on Krantz Baby and Joseph Scurlcock on Quetor escaped serious injuries.

LARGE FLYING BOAT IN FORCED LANDING ON BRAZIL FLIGHT

First Report Plane Crashed; Tug Boat Sent To Rescue

PORTA PRAIA, Cape Verde Islands, June 4.—Belief that the giant German flying boat, DO-X, had merely made a forced landing on the surf of the ocean, rather than having fallen in flight, was expressed here this afternoon.

The operator of the Porta Praia wireless station who announced the DO-X had fallen into the ocean later corrected his statement and said the ship had merely made a forced landing.

In the meantime a tug had been dispatched to the rescue of the stricken air liner and pending word from the tug no exact information was available.

The DO-X left Porto Praia at 10:45 a. m. local time and expected to reach Fernando de Noronha, off the northeastern coast of Brazil in sixteen hours of flying.

Further news of the condition of the DO-X was unobtainable here pending the return of the tug boat. The DO-X did not answer wireless calls.

The news caused a frenzy of excitement in the port here where the flying boat had been groomed for her South Atlantic flight.

A number of small boats put out hurriedly in the hope of arriving on the scene in time to witness the rescue operations if such were needed.

The DO-X arrived at Porto Praia last Saturday from Bissagos Bay off the coast of Portuguese New Guinea, where it had been held for several weeks by unfavorable weather.

Set-backs and delays have dogged the air liner's flight ever since it left its home port at Friedrichshafen, Germany, last fall. The ship flew to England and thence to Lisbon by way of France and Spain in easy stages, and while anchored off the Portuguese coast caught fire as the result of a short-circuit in the electric wiring.

This fire resulted in the destruction of one half of the ship's huge wing, and several months elapsed before the repairs were finished. The DO-X then flew to the Canary Islands. Additional delays followed here and some time elapsed before the ship was able to leave for the New Guinea coast.

Original plans called for the DO-X to spend some time in Brazil after its arrival, and then to fly northward to New York.

OHIO BELL AFFIRMS POLE ELIMINATION PROGRAM IN XENIA

Work To Start Soon; Will Be Completed Before Fall

Officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Thursday put their final stamp of approval upon plans for the company's pole elimination project in the heart of Xenia's business district.

Actual work is expected to be started with the arrival of new cable before the middle of this month, it is announced.

The schedule originally called for completion of the project by October 1, but H. W. Cleaver, Ohio Bell commercial manager in Xenia, said the construction crew will be able to beat that time.

The pole elimination campaign, in which local utility interests are co-operating, will result in the removal of a network of poles and wires on Main and Detroit Sts. for two squares in each direction from the Main and Detroit St. intersection.

Plans of the Ohio Bell call for removal of poles on Detroit St., so that the thoroughfare will be cleared, paving the way for installation of a combined boulevard lighting and overhead traffic control system.

Under present plans, the Ohio Bell will install 925 feet of underground conduit, twenty-four poles, about 470 feet of underground cable, and 6,700 feet of aerial cable on Church, Whiteman and Third Sts. When this task is accomplished, the company will remove thirty-one poles, about 1,200 feet of underground cable, and 4,200 feet of aerial cable from Detroit St.

CELEBRITY

What the project actually amounts to is the replacing of used equipment by entirely new equipment over a new route, officials of the company say.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!* Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

The great Lord Tennyson in a beautiful poem refers to a woman's Adam's Apple as "The warm white apple of her throat." Consider your Adam's Apple. Touch it—your Adam's Apple—That is your larynx—your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple you are considering your throat—your vocal chords. Protect the delicate tissues within your throat. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants! Reach for a LUCKY instead. Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette which brings you the added benefit of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process, which includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays. It is this exclusive process that expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Yea, better is he than both they, which hath not yet been, who hath not seen the evil work that is done under the sun.—Ecclesiastes, iv, 3.

THE RELIGION OF A MODERN LIBERAL

The late Dr. Harrison once said: "Religion means mercy, it means pity, it means love. Can you show me one monument of human service built by those without religion, without faith? to a thousand that I can instance and indicate reared by those who glorify God by serving His children, their brothers."

"Religion is a running stream whose movement and progress keep it pure and sweet, a stream that has come down to us out of the misty Past. It flows through the realm of the Present; it disappears into the Future. Shall we not add it to our tributary? Shall we not strengthen it with what impulse we can give, if it be only by incarnating and illustrating its value and its virtues—loyalty to it, loyalty to it. This is the one great contribution which, under stress and strain, we can and should make to the life of our age, of all the ages. . . The faith of our fathers shall not perish; it shall live when I am dead, when you have vanished from the scene. Shall it not live stronger, with warmer glow, with greater power, with more vitality because I have lived, because you have lived?"

TO REGIONS UNKNOWN

Professor Auguste Piccard and Professor Charles Kipfer, who recently returned safely to terra firma with their spoils, after a trip ten miles up in the air, performed an exceedingly spectacular feat. But the sensational nature of their accomplishment as explorers was merely an unavoidable incident of the research work in which they were engaged. The flight into the stratosphere was in no sense a stunt. It was a serious search for knowledge in whose pursuit was risked freely, but not recklessly.

The circumstances and conditions of their return from hitherto unexplored heights make it evident that the two savants knew what they were doing every minute while they were away, and had taken all the precautions against failure or disaster it was possible for them to make. When they stepped from their aluminum gondola and started walking down the mountainside on which it had settled, they made the wild rumors about what had happened to them, or was likely to happen to them, sound rather foolish. Hazards they certainly took, but evidently some of those who sent out wild reports about their chances of getting home safe and sound, were densely ignorant of the conditions under which the flight was being made, or were using vivid imaginations as aids in turning out copy.

Professors Piccard and Kipfer report a pleasant and highly profitable excursion without disagreeable features or mishaps of consequence, and it is safe to assume that they have added considerably to the sum of pure knowledge, which in these days generally is transformed into terms of practical knowledge without very much delay. They have been where man never went before and have experienced things man never experienced before. Also, although this probably seems to them incidental, they have made a new and notable contribution to a big mass of evidence that no man exceeds the daring and unflinching heroism of which a scholar or scientist is capable when moved by devotion to the pursuit of knowledge.

TO PRACTICAL PURPOSES

The manner in which certain powers have turned their shares of the Boxer indemnity to practical trade purposes provokes the China Weekly Review to caustic comment. The United States alone returned all of its allotment—and did it without attaching any commercial strings to the money.

After the Boxer trouble in 1900 the treaty powers "lined" China $350,000,000, which was to be paid in installments running until 1940. The American share was approximately $24,500,000. One-half of this sum was credited back to China under the Roosevelt administration and the balance under the Harding administration. The only condition was that the money should be used by China for educational purposes. Then the World War came on. China cancelled her payments to Germany and Austria; and the Allies, as a bribe to China to enter the war on their side, offered her a five-year moratorium on the Boxer debt. After the revolution in Russia the Soviet government, as a sop to China, cancelled the balance of its share of the indemnity. China still owed Great Britain, France, Japan, Belgium and Holland. After the five-year holiday was up they found China disinclined to resume payments.

The altruistic precedent set by the United States, which the Chinese did not fail to keep before the minds of their European and Japanese creditors, worked a partial miracle. All of the creditor nations have agreed to remit to China the balance of their installments—but not one of them has done this without exacting from China a commercial quid pro quo. Great Britain insists that her share shall be used for building railroads, which will provide a market for British equipment. The French share must be used to resuscitate a defunct Sino-French bank. The Dutch allotment is earmarked for certain harbor and reclamation projects in which Dutch subjects are interested. The Italians want their expended on steel bridges. The "cultural purpose" to which Japan wants her funds to be put is the development of aviation in China under Japanese auspices. The Belgian fund must be spent on railway material in Belgium.

The China Weekly Review aptly asks whether, if the United States had not already remitted its portion of the indemnity, Mr. Hoover, with these facts before him, would have been as altruistic as his predecessors. At that, we have a feeling that in the long run our disinterested policy will bear the better fruit among a people who have long memories and are not ungrateful or unmindful of favors done them.

A White House communique states that Mr. Hoover and his advisers have been going over the economic situation "and have found many factors that are favorable." The country is less interested in factors than in factories.

We can't understand why General Butler wants a job as senator—if he does. He won't be permitted to explode verbally in the chamber any more than he was permitted to do so over the radio.

The Milwaukee Journal thinks that Mrs. Willebrandt is neither a wet nor a dry by conviction, but "merely a very competent lawyer trying to get along." Maybe that is the reason she manages to fight so well for which ever side she happens to be on.

The Arkansas Gazette says that "another advantage to aviation is that there are no aerial trucks to hog the center of the air lanes." But they will come in time.

If the jazz age has ended, we wish the aftermath would commence to clear up a little and disappear.

CRIME OF YOUTH

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.—Youth has, in a measure, lost its sense of security in a fast-changing society, and "what we need is a quiet affirmation of standards and ideals to give young people something on which to rely and somewhere to start," according to Ada Louise Comstock, member of the National Commission on Law Observation and Enforcement.

Ada may be right; but, taken by and large, why should a generation responsible for The War and The Prohibition of Good Likker, attempt to lord it over Youth by "quiet affirmation" or otherwise?

OLD AND NEW

With Tiger Town's haberdashers this Spring featuring red cravats, lilac-colored shorts, pas-trousers, delirium tremens pajamas and dizzy bordered handkerchiefs, a happy contrast is furnished by a dealer in "Gents' Wear" on lower Eighth Avenue whose show windows display the old-fashioned lightweight full-length drawers, Cal Goudie nightshirts, celluloid collars and ready-made black satin bow ties that are skewered to the collar-button with a single twist of the wrist.

Democracy dies hard.

HONOR INDEED

Word just comes from Paula Gould, Female Boswell of Sophie Tucker, that America's Molten Mama has quit Ireland and opened at the Holborn Empire, London, for a fourth return engagement this season, where she is at present engaged in the delectable task of breaking her own three previous records established earlier in the year.

Think of it!

Before departing from Belfast, where Sophie established a new record for theatre attendance, she week-ended with Sir Jawn and Lydie Milbanks at their home in Ballymore, Eustace.

Sophie made such a profound impression on Ireland—according to Paul Gould—that a Belfast business firm presented her, Sophie, with a diamond pendant as a token of their admiration; and Shirley Stables, the most famous stables in Ireland, officially announced at last week's meeting that their newest filly to be named "Sophie Tucker." . . .

They named a cigar after Lillian Russell; a herring after Bismarck; a French bun after Napoleon; but none of them, like Sophie Tucker, ever had an Irish race horse named in their honor.

RUNNING EXPENSES

A run in her stockings may be an annoyance to Mah-dam, but it's a real tragedy to hotel men, managers of several Manhattan hostilities confess. All admit that when an irate customer demands compensation for damages to stockings caught and torn on the furniture, they pay, in amounts variously estimated at from $50 to $500 a year.

THE GOLDEN PEN

Be an author. Easy work, big pay. Last year Harper's Magazine received 25,000 manuscripts, or about 80 a day. It uses about one hundred and seventy-five annually.

The Saturday Evening Post receives about 1,000 a day. And how many of those do you suppose ever reach the eagle eye of George Horace Lorimer?

NIGHTHAWK DIET

New York, it is said, is the only town in the world where at least part of its population eats two breakfasts—one at sunrise before going to bed, and another at sunset just after getting up.

CHAPEAU CHAPPIE

One of the largest of the Fifth Avenue department stores has acquired the services of a male milliner—a languid young American who works with such ease and dexterity that hats seem literally to leap from his hands. Before becoming a milliner he created decorative sets for the theatre.

His models have a decided French flair and young women, also others not so young, are blazing a trail to the millinery department of that particular shop, departing in a benign bask of satisfaction.

UNIQUE AUTHORSHIP

Susan Glaspell, who was awarded $10,000 by the Pulitzer Prize Committee for "Allison's House," the "best play of the year," sat the other day gazing out of her hotel window at the swirling traffic. She covered her face with her hands.

"I hope never to see a city more than once a year for a few hours," she declared. "I want to get away from people. I live simply and quietly with my husband on a little farm where no one comes. All I ask of the world is peace to write what I choose. I don't want money."

THOSE TOILING DEBS

The startling discovery has just been made that society girls don't go to work because they are bored with the social whirl.

The Junior Leaguers are lured into punching the time clock because they need the money.

Moreover, it is said, both ends meet, just like Sadie Ginsburg or Mary Smith.

"I know a lot of girls," said one of these Laborin' Debs who holds down a job in a Fifth Avenue department store, "who buy $18.50 party dresses."

The average person thinks that Park Avenue girls pay big prices for things; but let me tell you that in the last year they've learned, many of them, to shop around in the bargain departments, just like other girls.

The myth about the debs working because they were bored was bound to be exploded sooner or later. They were being criticized for holding down jobs that other women needed badly—thus we get the truth.

RIGHT DOWN THE MIDDLE OF THE ROAD!

MILLIONAIRE SENATOR PONDERES OVER PROBLEM OF BREAKING UP WEALTH

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Senator James Couzens of Michigan looked up from the pad on which he had been figuring—figuring out methods of laying a heavier impost upon the estates left by dead multimillionaires, in part to supply the government with needed revenues, in part to break up the great concentrations of wealth which he blames largely for the present economic depression.

"It isn't as simple as it looks," he complained.

The trouble is that aging multimillionaires have a trick of giving their fortunes away to their heirs before they actually die, thus saving their hoards from the inroads of the tax collector. At first thought it may seem as if this dodge could be checked by taxing gifts, too—as was done for awhile in fact; but the law was repealed later.

"Second thought, however," observed the senator, "reveals a weakness in the gift tax. Small gifts, naturally, should not be taxed so heavily, in proportion, as very large ones, any more than small estates should be taxed at the same rate as great ones; it is not desired to prevent a man who is only moderately well-to-do from leaving his family provided for. Now, what is to keep an elderly multimillionaire from breaking one large gift up into a number of small ones—in order to avoid the higher levy?"

That Senator Couzens had not found the answer to this problem when I left him is neither here nor there—the point is:

How painful to America's little coterie of multimillionaires must be the spectacle of the richest man in congress (as the Wolverine lawmaker generally is reckoned) racking his brains for an air-tight plan to thwart plutocratic ambitions, which he frankly suspects, to found a few more mighty financial dynasties in the country!

As to the national concentration of wealth, the senator calls Secretary of the Treasury Mellon himself to witness that it exists already.

In a recent radio talk the secretary, after reminding his hearers that the government has come to rely upon income taxation for the bulk of its revenues, did indeed direct attention to the mere handful of vast fortunes which pay practically all the incomes taxes. "And if that," says Senator Couzens, "doesn't prove it, what does it prove?" (Secretary Mellon, to be sure, intended it to prove that more folk ought to pay taxes.)

"Of course I'm aware," continued the senator, "of the treasury's contention that heavy taxation of big incomes doesn't, in reality, fall upon the big incomes' recipients, because (as argued by the treasury) the latter include their taxes in the prices which they charge the consumers for the various things from which they derive their incomes."

"If that's the case, why does the big income taxpayer howl? If the consumer pays it for him, what does he care how high it is?"

"But I maintain that an income tax can't be passed along."

"The salaried man certainly can't pass his on. Neither can the man with an independent income, from some business; competition interferes."

"Suppose 'A' own an apartment house, and operating it economically, makes money on it and has an income tax to pay. Suppose that 'B,' operating a similar apartment house adjoining 'A's,' is so extravagant that he has no income, hence no tax to pay. Nevertheless, 'A' can't charge more rent than 'B' in order to unload his income tax onto his tenants. If he tries, they'll leave him and go to 'B' for lower rentals."

"A monopoly, it's true," said the Detroitier, "is in a position to hand its tax burden on down the line to its customers."

"However, a monopoly charges all the traffic will bear, anyway. Lowering its taxes will do its patrons no good; the monopoly merely will make that much more money."

"Let income taxation be broadened, so as to reach comparatively small incomes," reasoned the senator, "and I submit that it will be equivalent to a general wage reduction, for most of today's recipients of such incomes are wage or salary earners, and they certainly will get less by whatever is taken away from them in taxes."

"It is urged, I know, that the consciousness of taxation's burden on them will make a greater number of voters more insistent than heretofore upon governmental economies."

"But, pooh! They may be as insistent as they like; officeholders will pay no attention to them, because they will lack organization."

"If a million mere miscellaneous voters want something or other, no politician worries much about them, for they have no cohesive mass. If the representatives of 50,000 American Legionnaires present their demands in Washington—ah, yes! that's different; organized strength is listened to."

"But an income taxpayers' league? Consider. A tax probably of $4 or $5 per member! A league assessment of $20 or $25! I doubt it. Without it—no influence whatever!"

"That's why I say this country is run by organized minorities."

Pare cucumbers and cut in thirds, hollow out centers, making baskets. Cut the tomatoes in half and scoop out the centers. Cut peppers in half lengthwise and remove all membranes and seeds. Allow one cucumber basket, one-half tomato and one-half pepper for each serving. Fill the baskets with salad made of the remaining ingredients. Arrange each basket on a crisp lettuce leaf. EARTH ORIGIN OF MOON SUPPORTED BY MOON'S DENSITY

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

An interesting bit of indirect evidence that the moon was once a part of the earth: The density (mass contained in a unit volume) of the moon is 3.33 times that of water. This is almost identical with the density of the earth's rocks underlying the thin outer "scum" or layer. The density of the earth's deep core is very much greater than this. If the moon was at one time a part of the earth, and was hurled off because of rapid rotation of the earth, it would be expected that the part would break off to become the moon would be from the outer basic rocks leaving the deep denser core behind.

Dosing with Cathartics not Helpful

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The person with colitis or irritable colon has not infrequently given it to himself. The inside of the colon or large intestine is quite sensitive and easily injured; it will not stand prolonged insult by mechanical irritation or chemicals, whether the chemicals be epsom salts or oil in enemas. Yesterday we pointed out the possible dangers of excessive douching of the large intestine, especially when carried over by the patient on his own body without medical supervision.

Today we discuss an even commoner habit which is quite as fraught with potential harm—the habitual dosing with cathartics. Perhaps the best way to make the point clear is to recite the history of an actual patient. A man aged 40 came to a clinic complaining of discomfort all over his abdomen, and constipation. Curiously, when he was questioned about his constipation, he said that he had several evacuations a day, but that what he meant by the word "constipation" was that he never felt as if his intestines were entirely empty. He had been in the habit of dosing himself with epsom salts for years.

At first he felt relief from the use of the salts, but a year before consulting the clinic doctor he began to feel the sensation of not being cleaned out and increased his dosage of salts until he was taking some every two hours in the daytime and was consuming the staggering amount of nearly a half a pound a day. The insides of his intestines were red and spongy and covered with small white spots, probably be ginning ulcers.

On treatment which consisted in taking him entirely away from the epsom salts and giving him a bland diet of milk and eggs and vegetable purées, he was restored to normal feelings of health and comfort.

Such a story, which is by no means as uncommon as it sounds as if it should be, shows how such excessive anxiety to keep the color empty actually leads to colitis. In fact, the cathartic habit, and the enema habit, and roughage diets are the commonest causes of colitis.

There is one good rule for those who have the necessity for a cathartic. That is, take a cathartic only on the night of the day when you have not had an evacuation. There is no question that many people do cathartic occasionally or even fairly regularly, but it is very easy to slip into the habit of taking too much, and of taking a cathartic too often.

For several reasons, perhaps, the best cathartic to take for regular use is fluid extract of cascara sagrada. Being in liquid form, the exact dosage can be measured more accurately than if in pill form. For some people one pill is not enough and two pills are too many. With liquid cascara and a dropper you can get the exact number of drops which will produce a formed evacuation without griping and irritation. For you it may be 21 drops, for somebody else in the household 19 drops, or 25 drops; but in every case the individual can get the exact dose needed. It should be taken at night as it requires about 3 hours to work. And it should be taken only on the night of the day when there has been no evacuation.

Dr. Logan Clendingen, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. Man and Girl Victims of Love

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Love is no respecter of persons," a correspondent states. And she's right. And she might have added, and no respecter of circumstances.

He also makes it very difficult at times to know what is right and to do it if one knows.

And yet, what is life without Love? Who would forego its joys, even though such foregoing made life smooth and easy?

Suppose the case of a man estranged from a wife for some years. Said wife an invalid. He meets a girl and both fall in love. He is paying his wife's bills and won't divorce her because he would feel he was the "ace of cads" if he did.

Both man and the girl he loves are well known and have excellent reputations. What can they do? Can they even be seen going out together, getting some consolation in one another's companionship? They have asked my advice.

Anxious and Worried: Your problem is indeed difficult to solve. Does the chap's wife love him? What would her reaction be, I wonder, to your love for one another, provided he promised to continue his financial assistance? If he cares for him, that fact, coupled with her illness, would indeed make it difficult, if not wrong, to divorce her. But if she doesn't care for him, if she is as indifferent to him as he to her, wouldn't it be better for them to be quietly divorced, with the understanding that he would pay her bills, as she is helpless?

I admire your friend's feeling that he must stand by his wife in her trouble, even though he no longer loves her. But if you go about together, even though you are chaperoned, you will have to face the fact that people will gossip. Your reputations will suffer, as surely as you are alive.

If circumstances are such that he can't bring himself to divorce his wife, the only thing to do is to meet in company occasionally, and try to be patient until something happens to change things. "It's a long lane that has no turning," you know.

"Despondent: "Oh, these husbands who think their wives are not entitled to have a vent for themselves, and who squander money on their own luxuries and then scold because there isn't enough left!" I suppose they are right, however, by the wives whose husbands turn over the pay envelope to them and they spend unwisely.

Could you earn a little money by taking care of neighbors' children occasionally when they want to go out? By doing a bit of sewing for such neighbors, or helping them when they have company by baking, etc., in your own home? Could you write verses for printing on postcards for special occasions? Do embroidery, make book rugs, quilts, embroider or hem towels, and bed linen or towels? If none of these is in your line, or you think they wouldn't pay in your town, haven't you some special talent with which you could make a little money? Something that you can do better than anyone else?

Atomizer New Beauty Accessory

By GLADYS GLAD

Atomizers are certainly playing a large part in feminine beauty rites these days! There are atomizers for brilliantizing the hair, atomizers for applying waving lotion, atomizers for spraying powder evenly over the neck and arms. And the latest wrinkle is an atomizer for applying lotions to the face. Many of the manufacturers of beauty accessories are now bringing these "lotion atomizers" to the fore, and a number of women have already started to use them.

An atomizer is, in my opinion, an excellent device for applying lotions to the face. But don't use your zeal, try to use a perfume atomizer for this purpose. You'll come to grief if you do. The openings in the perfume atomizers are too small, and become clogged easily. If that should occur, you'd probably become disgusted, and tell yourself that it is a stupid idea anyway.

The advantage of the atomizer is that it saves additional rubbing of the face. And every device that keeps us from rubbing the face saves off the wrinkles. Massage, which was originally designed for reductions, usually doesn't add to one's youthfulness when applied to the face. It breaks down the fatty tissues in the face—and it's the fat that keeps the face youthful and softly-rounded. Unnecessary rubbing of the face may stretch the delicate, elastic tissues, and cause the skin to sag in wrinkled looseness.

If your face lotion poses any bleaching properties, and you apply it with an atomizer, be sure to cover your eyebrows before you begin spraying the lotion over your forehead. Use small pads of cotton, or a thick coating of cold cream or vaseline. If the lotion bleaches them, and make them unattractively light. It's an excellent idea, also, to have the hairline covered by a towel or a "beauty bandeau" of cloth or rubber. For if your hand should slip or your aim be poor, some of the lotion might land in your hair. And the effects would be far from beneficial.

The new lotion atomizers are not only very useful, but are ornamental as well. And I think that everything in our beauty equipment should be as pretty as possible. For attractive accessories tend to encourage their own use and help to overcome that strange forgetfulness—or laziness—with which some women are afflicted.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Thin Face
Nell R.: Massage your face nightly with warmed cocoa butter. This will help to fatten the tissues, and round out the facial contours.

Legs
Pat C.: The list of exercises contained in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs" will help to reduce and shape your legs. I regret to say that these exercises are too long to print here. Your present weight is correct.

Hair
Undecided: The color of the hair is occasioned by the pigment cells. The only way in which you can change the color of your hair, and make it darker, is by dyeing.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling. For her articles on "Care of the Feet and Legs," 2 cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

WELFARE WORK IS PLANNED BY LEGION

Plans for additional far-reaching child welfare work were started by Joseph P. Foody Post, American Legion, Tuesday night.

Inspirational talks were given by John H. Kreher, former superintendent of recreation of Pittsburgh, Pa., and a veteran Scout with nineteen years' service in Scout work, and John Leonard Trunnell, newly-appointed Scoutmaster of the post's Boy Scout Troop.

Trunnell is a veteran Scout with eighteen years' experience. The post went on record as standing behind its proposed Scout program, both morally and financially.

Another important phase of child welfare work of the post was revealed when the post voted to give financial aid to children of Greene County in need of treatment for defective vision. Twelve children of school age will be equipped with corrective glasses.

Mrs. Pearl Wittenmyer, Greene County health nurse, made a plea for cooperation of the post in the work of reclaiming vision for the youth of Greene County. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

SOIL TESTING

Written for Central Press
By DR. KARL F. KELLERMAN

Bureau of Plant Industry

U. S. Department of Agriculture

Although most garden soils are neither very acid or very alkaline, and consequently are suitable for most flowers, the gardener will do well to find out the soil reaction

and if necessary

modify his soil

to meet the needs of his plants,

horticulturists of the Bureau of

Plant Industry

advise. Neutral

soils are unfavorable to such boily, laurel,

plants as azalea,

pink lady's slip-

per, wild lily,

trailing arbutus,

magnolia and rho-dodendron. Acid

soils are unfavorable for begonia, cosmos, dahlia, gladiolus, rose, zinnia and similar plants. Alkali in the soil rarely presents a problem for the gardener except in some of the western plains and desert regions.

If the gardener needs a more acid soil he may apply aluminum sulphate, powdered tannic acid, peat moss, or pine or oak sawdust that has been decaying a few years. He can neutralize acid soils with lime, the amount to be applied depending on the amount of acidity.

For both gardens and lawns, lime is of little value if merely strewn on the surface. It should be raked into the soil. Laying on the surface it changes to a less soluble form. One mistaken belief is that moss indicates an acid soil.

Instead, it usually indicates lack of fertility or poor drainage. Another mistake is to turn over the ground to liberate fertilizer. This causes loss of humus, and destroys beneficial soil bacteria.

The simplest method of testing soil acidity is by the use of litmus paper. If greater accuracy is required the experimenter will do well to secure one of the simpler sets of test solutions for the hydrogen-ion determination.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

WELL KNOWN HORSE TRAINER IS CALLED

Death removed a widely known harness horse trainer of Greene County when Orlando Worthington, 58, died at his home on E. Church St. at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

Mr. Worthington, who formerly lived in Jamestown and was well known throughout the county as a trainer, had been in declining health for the last three years.

Surviving is one sister, Miss Myrtle Jones, Cedarville, and five half-brothers, Sherman and William Jones, both of Cedarville; Wilbur Jones, Toledo, O.; Bert and Albert Jones, both of Xenia.

The body was removed to the J. C. Johnson funeral home, where friends may call after 4:30 p. m. Thursday. Funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at the Zion Baptist Church in Jamestown with interment in the Jamestown cemetery.

ZIMMERMAN

The Faithful Worker's Sunday School class had a pleasant and profitable meeting at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Coy near Byron Thursday evening, May 21.

The president H. C. Haverstick conducted the business session.

Whether to drop the Sunday evening Junior and Adult Departmental meetings, or how to increase interest and attendance was discussed. Among the thought provoking opinions given, was that of Mrs. F. Couser, "Would we as a church, have the influence in the community if we dropped these meetings. That there are always a few faithful ones, and might they not get something from these services that would help them to be a benefit to church and community?"

A motion by Mrs. J. Coy that we continue them for another month and try to increase the interest and attendance, was adopted.

A program, as follows, was given:

Two piano solos, Alice Coy; clarinet and violin duo, Lawrence and Alice Coy; dialog, "What the Little Girl Said," Thelma Stewart and Mrs. H. M. Stewart; violin solo, Alice Coy; Mrs. J. Coy, accompanist.

A plant guessing contest in charge of Mrs. Stewart was won by Miss Catherine Wolfe. First prize (a bunch of parental plants) and Mrs. Andy O'Hara, booby prize (a bunch of onions) who were the lucky ones in drawing for the prizes. Miss Wolfe, Mrs. O'Hara, Friend Couser, Miss Leona Koogler, Ted Miller being tied for first prize.

Refreshments of sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee were served. The delicious doughnuts and coffee were made and served by the hostess.

Attending were Rev. and Mrs. Eldemiller, Mr. and Mrs. Coy, Lawrence and Alice; Mason Aleshire, Russell Zimmerman, Mrs. Nettie Moler, Mrs. C. Zimmerman, Mrs. F. J. Barron, Miss Julia Lantz, Mrs. Lewis Bailey, H. C. Haverstick, Mrs. Harlan Coy and daughter, Marcella; Mrs. Andy O'Hara; Mrs. Stewart, Thelma and Nadine; Mr. and Mrs. Friend Couser, Faith, Don and Alice; Mrs. Lester Lehman, Mrs. Clitic Sipe, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bear, Vera and Marilyn.

Visitors present were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wolf, Catherine and Elmer; Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Miller, Marion and Warren; Misses Leona, Louise and Jonas Koogler, Merlin Eldemiller, Bernard Coy, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Coy, Howard Ashbaugh, Misses Mary Haverstick, Frances O'Hara, Mrs. Charles Lehman, Roger Harner, Ted Miller, Harlan Coy.

The following are seriously ill at this writing: Horace Ferguson, at his home at Shoup's Station; Mrs. Gilbert Liehtler.

Mrs. D. Trubee is improving slowly having sat up a short time Saturday, May 23, the first time during a fifty-three day's illness with a lung complication.

Mrs. Newton Coy is now able to be around after a back-set following an operation at Miami Valley hospital, by Dr. Marcellus Coy.

The Community Club held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Alvah Stine, with the president, Mrs. Crawford Coy presiding. Mrs. Coy had arranged a special program in honor of Mother's Day. Selections were read by Mrs. L. Bailey, Mrs. Stine and Mrs. Lehman.

Club voted to furnish zinnia seed and cosmos to the children of the community entering flower contest, and to hold the annual flower show in September. The contest is in charge of Mrs. Treharme, Miss Lida Ferguson and Mrs. Lawrence Brill.

A rose contest introduced by the president was won by Mrs. Stewart.

Mrs. Coy also arranged a pretty candle lighting feature in honor of the mothers present. The guests were seated around a long table for the delicious refreshments which were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Treharme invited the club to meet at her home, June 4.

Present were Mrs. Treharme, Mrs. Charles Lehman, Mrs. Lester Lehman, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Alfred Sinar and daughter, Phyllis Anne; Mrs. Smith of near Eaton; Miss Ferguson, Mrs. L. Brill, Mrs. I. N. Kable, Mrs. Barron, Miss Lantz, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. William Leban, Mrs. Coy, Mrs. Stine and Mrs. Sturgeon.

William Titlow of Columbus and C. R. Maxton of Dayton, visited their cousin, Mrs. D. Trubee.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Deger and daughter, Wanda Jean, of Harshman, visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Koogler.

During the children's song period at Sunday School, the following fourth grade girls sang a special number: Helen Koogler, Helen Creagor, Gertrude Jenkins, Edith Irvin, Jane Belden, Eva Sinar.

At another time Garnet Moore, Jane Belden and Eva Sinar gave a special song.

These numbers and others were taught by their school teacher, Miss Thelma Turner for the occasion.

Special numbers in honor of Mother's Day were a beautiful duet by Misses Ruth and Martha Stewart, and a solo by Miss Catherine Koogler, the latter lost her mother in infancy, and sang "You're the Best Little Mother That God Ever Made," with a sympathetic understanding otherwise impossible for one so young.

Miss Koogler has an exceptionally good voice and has enrolled as a pupil of Mrs. McGervey, in Xenia for vocal lessons.

Mr. C. P. Yowler, as teacher of the Advanced Grades, and Miss Thelma Turner, of the Primary room, closed a successful term of school at this place, and this, notwithstanding the handicap of overcrowded rooms, large enrollment of pupils of two different districts (Brown and Zimmerman) and an unusually large number of transient pupils.

Mr. Yowler also deserves commendation for his efforts in organizing a school orchestra, which interested a number of children to get instruments and take music lessons, who would not have done so otherwise.

Mrs. George of Dayton visited her sister Mrs. Shilkneck and attended church here.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrus Belt attended church here and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bailey.

Helen Koogler spent a week with her sister Mrs. Thomas Finkle at Belmont.

Miss Mary Cameron, a talented singer of Australia visited her aunt and cousin Mrs. T. W. Treharme and Miss Louise Treharme.

Miss Turners has finished her third successful term at Zimmerman and plans to attend summer school at Wittenberg College.

Miss Mary Coy is home after finishing her first term of school. She has again been elected teacher for next term in the South Charleston schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Miller, Derrel, Mary Ellen and Warren and other relatives in various parts of the United States and Canada.

Horace Treharme, of Cleveland spent the week end with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Treharme.

Schoolmates of Rachel Davis have received cards from her saying she with her step-father and mother Mrs. and Mrs. Earl Coy had reached Ft. Worth, Texas en route to Phoenix, Arizona, where they expect to locate and which place they expected to reach May 25. We are indeed sorry to lose this worthy family from our community.

Mrs. C. Zimmerman spent Saturday night and Sunday at the home of Frank Zimmerman and family, in Dayton.

Rev. Eldemiller was a Sunday guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Ferguson.

H. C. Haverstick accompanied Rev. and Mrs. Eldemiller to Florence, Ky., where Rev. Eldemiller visited the Church of Brethren Mission, of which he is elder in charge. Rev. Eldemiller is president of the Mission Board of Southern Ohio, which also has charge of the Kentucky Mission Church.

Miss Turners has finished her third successful term at Zimmerman and plans to attend summer school at Wittenberg College.

Miss Mary Coy is home after finishing her first term of school. She has again been elected teacher for next term in the South Charleston schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Miller, Derrel, Mary Ellen and Warren

Miller, Misses Catherine Koogler and Ruth Snyder enjoyed a picnic at the river with the family of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Tobias near Bellbrook, Memorial Day.

Miss Elizabeth Ankeney, Beaver Creek Twp. music teacher had charge of the Mass Day program at the K. of P. Hall at Alpha May 15.

A pleasing operetta, "Mother Goose's Birthday Party," was well rendered and much enjoyed. The costumes were appropriate and pretty. The chorus and ensemble singing was exceptionally fine and showed careful and skillful training. Solo parts were well sung and acted. Dorothy Rose Zimmer was accompanist for the entire operetta. The Grade School Orchestra composed of Alice Coy, Alice Shoup and Thelma Stewart, violins; Roger Smith, Everett Koogler, Lawrence Coy, Donald Munger, wind instruments; Bernice Kanarh, drum; Beulah Engle, piano, gave two selections. Much credit and appreciation are due Miss Ankeney for her untiring efforts in training both a high school and a grade school orchestra, in addition to the vocal music of the township.

Surely all honor is due all of the teachers who give so generously of their time and efforts to interest the youth under their care.

"Whatsoever things are true, pure, lovely," worth while.

Supt. P. G. Morand presented the diplomas to the eighth grade graduating class, announcing that Beulah Engle, 13, received the highest grade in the state examination.

Rev. Eby of Trotwood, preached a very good sermon Sunday morning at this place in Rev. Eldemiller's absence. In the evening Mrs. Friend Couser had charge of the service following the departmental meetings, unusual interest being shown in each and all of these services.

Misses Ruth Stewart and Martha Coy and Mrs. Robert Bear, are the committee in charge of the Children's Day program which will be given the latter part of June.

The Aeolian Male Quartet from Laverne College, California, will return for a special musical program the latter part of June.

These young men were here last summer and gave an excellent and most enjoyable program to a crowded house. All are invited to hear them Monday, June 23 at 8 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bear entertained twenty-three relatives and friends at supper Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Bear also attended the program given by the Cousers at Middle District Church, May 17, which was a most enjoyable high class entertainment, consisting of solos, duets, quartets and group singing, with a reading by Mrs. F.

Couser. Those taking part were: Mr. Joe Couser, Friend, William and Jacob Couser, quartet; Mrs. Wm. Couser (Mary Zimmerman), Mrs. F. Couser, Mrs. Jacob Couser (Mary Mirandy), Faith and Don Couser and three children of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Couser.

HOW ONE WOMAN LOST 102 LBS. OF FAT

Almost Unbelievable—Nevertheless True

Dear Friends: You advertise Kruschen Salts for reducing, so I finally tried them and when I started I weighed 219 pounds and when I took them for a year and 3 weeks, I lost exactly 102 pounds.

I am 23 years old and I look at least 5 years younger now than I did when I was fat. I have a picture of myself before and after so if you want to see them let me know.

I am always telling my friends about the wonderful salts. I am always advertising them.

I took 2 bottles every month for a year and 3 weeks. It amounted to $25 for reducing 102 pounds but it was worth it.

If I can be of any help to you let me know.

Yours truly, Miss Nellie Simpson, 1903 Wayne Street, Swissvale, Pa. Oct. 31, 1930.

The Modern Safe Way—Right Way to Lose Fat

Just take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

You can hasten the reducing action of Kruschen by going lighter on potatoes, pastry and fatty meats.

Unlike other Salts, Kruschen doesn't reduce by rushing food thru your system. Rather it's an ideal blend of 6 separate mineral salts which help every gland, nerve and body organ to function properly.

Women everywhere are overjoyed with this marvelous reducing treatment. Frequently pound by pound of surplus fat leaves and soon you possess that trim, slender figure you've always craved.

An 85c bottle of Kruschen (lasts 4 weeks) is sold by leading druggists the world over—so start this SAFE method to lose ugly fat TODAY!

The Theater

Now "East Lynne," a melodrama that blazed its tear-swept way across the footlight horizon back in Civil War days, comes back on stage and screen to intrigue ultra-modern audiences.

For the benefit of those who expect to see the opus here in both media, it may be interesting to know that this is the seventieth anniversary of the play, which was written by Mrs. Henry Wood in 1861.

Mrs. Ellen Price (Henry) Wood, an invalid most of her life after marriage, wrote practically all her novels and short stories in a reclining chair. "East Lynne" was

Hall in New York March 23, 1863. It was followed by presentations at the Boston Museum with Kate Denin as Isabel in 1865 and Boston Theater, Boston, in 1869 with Mrs. D. P. Bowers featured. The first English version was played in Birmingham September 16, 1869. The play has also been widely imitated, notably by a play called "Miss Multon" first produced in Paris in 1869.

Despite the studio protestations of the end of gang pictures, the underworld still creeps into many stories. James Whitaker has sold a story to Radio called "The Chicago Dove" in which Mary Astor will star with Ricardo Cortez as her support. The story deals with a gangster who aids a girl to become an opera singer and who eventually is put in the spot because he double crossed the gang to supply her with money. George Archambaud will direct.

her third novel and was published serially in 1861 in the New Monthly Magazine in England. In the fall of that year it was published in that country in book form in three volumes.

The story was translated into practically every language and a recent survey shows that more than 15,000,000 copies have been sold. As a play it has been estimated that it has been seen by more than 100,000,000 people. Notwithstanding its success in the United States and other countries, Mrs. Wood did not receive a penny from the publishers who issued the novel outside of England nor did she receive anything from those who adapted it for the stage, due to the fact there were no binding copyright laws.

As a result of this abuse of publication a movement was started shortly before Mrs. Wood's death in 1897 to devise protection for literary work in this country and British possessions resulting in the international copyright law of 1890.

The first dramatic adaptation of "East Lynne" is that of Clifton W. Layleure, a Brooklyn playwright. Lucille Western a popular American star, was the first actress to play the leading role of Isabel and the initial performance of the Layleure version was given at Tripler's

Gun Talks for Her

A shotgun is all primed to talk for Mrs. Augusta Hank when it comes to negotiations with a power company which wants to string some high-tension wires across her property northeast of Joliet, Illinois. Mrs. Hank, shown above with her trusty weapon, is standing pat in her determination not to permit the public utility to cross her land.

IN SPRING GIRL'S FANCY TURNS TO THOUGHTS OF HER TROUSSEAU

"In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," says the poet. "A girl's thoughts, at the same time, are quite apt to turn—and not lightly—to thoughts of her trousseau. Pictured is the latest in wedding dresses and the pajama ensemble and swimming suit which the bride is likely to consider important parts of said trousseau. The bridal gown has a bodice of satin with overdress and capelet of chantilly lace with sprays of orange blossoms and a deep flounce of tulle. The young lady, left, is wearing a pair of formal teatime pajamas of white satin with metallic jacket, next to her is a suit in red Paisley model in Russian style. - The very latest in swim suits are pictured right. They are named the "sun air" suits in two-piece style with pleated trunks and backless bibs held in place with straps. These styles were shown at a society fashion show in St. Petersburg, Fla.

GERMAN PLANE FORCED DOWN AT SEA

LINDBERGH'S PLAN FLIGHT ACROSS NORTH PACIFIC

WILL MAKE AIRPLANE FLIGHT OVER ORIENT

Leave Continent By Way Of Alaska For Short Hop Over Pacific; To Fly Over Siberia; Will Leave New Jersey Within Month

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh, will leave for an airplane tour of the Orient within a month, the state department announced today.

They will fly all the way from their estate in New Jersey and will go by the way of Alaska taking the short water hop across the Pacific and will probably fly over Siberia and tour China and Japan by easy stages.

Lindbergh is planning the trip with utmost care that gasoline supplies will be arranged for him in advance at the various places he will stop to refuel.

THREE CANDIDATES FOR PRESIDENT ARE SEEN BY GOVERNORS

Roosevelt, Ritchie And Pinchot Expected To Seek Office

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Ind., June 4.—The annual conference of state governors, which broke up today, served to put the presidential candidacies of three men in bold relief against the 1932 political picture.

For the Democratic nomination next year, both Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, made politically important contacts with their fellow governors, who are likely to be influential figures in their respective state delegations, and both governors as well furnished further insight into their developing campaigns.

On the Republican side, Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, left little doubt that he is to be considered a rival for the nomination which most politicians, irrespective of party, believe President Hoover cannot be denied. Nevertheless and with his usual disdain of odds, the Pennsylvania throw his hat into the ring on the power issue, and there it is likely to remain until further developments. Gov. Pinchot's friends are already actively in quest of anti-Hoover delegates to the convention next year in a dozen states.

Of the twenty-odd governors who attended the conference about half were Democratic. During the three days, both Gov. Roosevelt and Gov. Ritchie found opportunity to confer with them privately. The results of these conferences, if any, will not become apparent for many months probably, but they are nevertheless important and significant at this stage of the game.

A poll of the Republican governors, taken by the International News Service correspondent, developed that all thought President Hoover would have little difficulty about re-nomination, "if he wants it," several of them added.

A similar poll of the Democratic governors revealed a variety of opinion, although the consensus was that Gov. Roosevelt is at this time, twelve months in advance of the convention, leading the race. A few thought he "is the probable nominee," but the majority was inclined to regard the race as "very open" and for the few who believed Roosevelt was the likely nominee, there were an offsetting few who disagreed entirely and thought he would not be the nominee.

WANT CHURCH TO DEFINE ATTITUDE

LONDON, June 4.—A resolution demanding appointment of a committee to define the attitude of the Anglican Church toward marriage and divorce was unanimously adopted today at a meeting of the Canterbury convocation in Westminster Hall here.

The resolution proposes that the committee be appointed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang, and states that "the church can drift no longer; the time has come for a full inquiry."

The bishop of Salisbury, a bachelor, denounced the church's "collusion" in divorce, demanding a rule whereby the church would refuse to re-marry divorcees whose first husband was still living.

SETS SWIM RECORD

SUVA, Fiji Islands, June 4.—"Zimny," the so-called legless wonder, today was the holder of a new world's endurance swimming record. He left the tank after swimming for eighty-one hours. He was in excellent condition after the gruelling swim.

BLAST AND FIRE ENDANGER 16

CLEVELAND, June 4.—Fire, which followed a terrific explosion of a dynamite bomb wrecking a house recently padlocked for liquor violation, today partially destroyed two adjoining dwellings and endangered the lives of sixteen persons.

Police said the blast was the result of a bootleg feud in Cleveland. Two men were arrested and held for questioning when they were found near the scene.

Damage resulting from the fire at the two adjoining dwellings exceeded $2,000, firemen said. The house destroyed by the blast was valued at more than $3,000. Residents of the dwellings escaped to the street uninjured.

STIMSON MAY STUDY EUROPE SITUATION ON COMING JOURNEY

Expected To Discuss Questions In Foreign Capitals

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Secretary of State Stimson, ostensibly going to Europe with Mrs. Stimson toward the end of this month on a tourist trip, will make a personal survey of the European situation, both from economic and political points of view.

Declaring he is not going on a political mission, nevertheless, Stimson is prepared for real work of an informal nature, pertaining to his official duties as chief diplomatic officer of the United States. The first part of call will be Naples, and from there Stimson probably will go by easy stages to Rome. He expects to visit France, Germany and England in turn.

At each of the capitals there are questions to be discussed in which Stimson has considerable interest, chiefly disarmament and the European economic situation. And not the least, an opportunity will be afforded the European statesmen to sound out the American foreign minister on problems of vital importance to them, in most of which American participation is desired. With Mussolini, Stimson is expected to discuss the dormant Franco-Anglo-German naval accord negotiations, together with the collateral questions bearing on the forthcoming Geneva general disarmament conference. This same question, too, will arise in London and Paris because of the realization that unless some acceptable naval accord is attained as among France, Italy and England affecting Mediterranean politics, little progress can be made in general disarmament.

Intervened through all meetings with the foreign ministers and prime ministers of these powers, will of course be many seemingly unrelated questions which as long as they remain unsettled, will be obstacles to disarmament. There is the Austro-German customs union proposal; German reparations, including the suggested moratorium; the British proposal to cure the world depression through control of credits, and further development of the central bank idea through the bank of international settlements.

Intervened through all meetings with the foreign ministers and prime ministers of these powers, will of course be many seemingly unrelated questions which as long as they remain unsettled, will be obstacles to disarmament.

Mortimer Schiff, Banker, Dies

SUCCUMBS TO HEART ATTACK SITTING IN BED; PLANNED TRIP

Death Is Surprise; Widely Known For Philanthropy

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 4.—Mortimer L. Schiff, banker and philanthropist, died at his home on Sandy Hill Road here today.

His death was a surprise for he was still in the prime of life. He would have been fifty-four years old tomorrow.

He was found dead, sitting up in bed. He had apparently succumbed to a heart attack.

When he left his office, with the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb and Co., in New York yesterday he seemed to be feeling unusually cheerful. Late in the afternoon he played golf at Oyster Bay. Arrangements had been completed for him to leave for abroad next month to join his wife, who is in Europe.

Mr. Schiff was quite wealthy. His fortune was variously estimated from $10,000,000 to $50,000,000.

He was born in New York on June 5, 1877. He was graduated from Amherst College in 1896 and five years later was married in New York to Adele G. Neustadt. They had two children, Dorothy and John Mortimer Schiff.

After several years in the employ of railroads, Mr. Schiff went abroad and studied banking in London and Hamburg. In 1898 he entered the employ of Kuhn, Loeb and Co. and two years later became a partner in the concern.

Mr. Schiff was the author of a number of pamphlets on taxation, profit-sharing and other economic subjects. He had been a director of the Western Union Telegraph Co.; American and Continental Corporation; the Chemical Bank and Trust Co.; The Chemical Safe Deposit Co.; The Chemical National Association, Inc.; The Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad and The Pacific Oil Co.

He also had been vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of New York state; a member of the International Committee of Bankers for Mexico and of the New York Foreign Securities Committee of Investment Bankers' Association and of the New York State Commission in regard to legislation for control of security issues.

Mr. Schiff was also vice president of the Boy Scouts of America. He was active in welfare work. At one time he was a member of the executive committee, finance committee and Paris executive committee of the Young Men's Christian Association. He was a member of the executive committee and chairman of the finance committee and of the overseas committee, Jewish welfare board in 1918-19. He served on the committee of eleven of the war department to correlate the work of the army and navy welfare agencies.

Mr. Schiff was a member of half a dozen clubs. He was widely known in Wall Street and railroad circles.

NAUTILUS TESTED BEFORE OCEAN TRIP

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., June 4.—The submarine Nautilus, in which Sir Hubert Wilkins and his expedition will attempt to reach the north pole undersea, rode at anchor today off this fishing port, having made a successful and uneventful overnight run from New London, Conn.

Submerged test runs off the tip of Cape Cod were planned by Sir Hubert, preparatory to starting across the Atlantic to London.

The submersible was conveyed here by coastguard patrolboats. Commander Donald B. McMillan, intrepid Arctic explorer, was up early ready to greet Sir Hubert. McMillan, who makes his home here, is planning a northward dash, but he will use an airplane.

YOUTH ACCUSED OF MURDER CHARGE

NEWARK, O., June 4.—Still contending that he mistook his victim for a prowler, Leonard Ramsey, 20, today faced first degree murder charges, filed by police, for the shooting of Tolman Shaw, 53.

Authorities awaited a verdict by the coroner before proceeding with the arraignment. Shaw's body, according to police, was found in Ramsey's front yard. Ramsey, however, although admitting the shooting, said he thought Shaw was a burglar and only meant to frighten him away.

RICH—WITH $1.11 IN POCKET

Winner Of Derby Prize Under Police Guard; Appoints Manager

BOSTON, June 4.—With exactly $1.11 in his pocket, Joseph Kennedy, 32-year-old odd-job laborer, winner of $154,000 in the Irish sweepstakes on the English derby today found himself the center of trials and tribulations as a result of his newly-gained riches.

Since Kennedy was announced as the holder of a lottery ticket on Cameronian, the winning horse at the English derby, a special police guard was assigned to him, following revelations that gangsters were plotting to "hijack" his winnings.

Kennedy was also worried by the declaration in London by another Joseph Kennedy, an oiler on an American freighter, that he held the ticket on Cameronian. Later word came from London, however, stated the oiler had confessed a "hoax."

Kennedy's first act, after dropping on his knees and offering a prayer of thanks in the office of his "boss" at Morgan Memorial, where he heard the race over the radio, was to invest some of his earnings to insure himself of an annual income of $7,000 for life.

This was done through his newly appointed manager, Thaddeus A. Kitchener.

Kennedy revealed that he would bring his wife and three children to the United States, from Jamaica. He laid plans for a fine education for his children, and for himself.

MAN SEVERELY HURT BY BLAST MYSTERIOUSLY

Denies Knowledge Of Cause; Explosion Being Probed

COLUMBUS, O., June 4.—With his right hand blown away, bones badly burned, and a hole in his right shoulder, Ray Campbell, 30, of Westerville was rushed to Grant Hospital here today suffering critical injuries he said he received in a mysterious explosion while he was swimming near his home.

Four companions who brought him to the hospital hurried away in an automobile despite attempts of nurses to detain them for questioning by police.

Declaring he wanted to turn off his motor the man who brought Campbell into the emergency room went to his automobile and swiftly drove away with his three companions, nurses said.

Unwilling to believe Campbell's story of an early morning swimming expedition, police declared he probably was hurt while dynamiting for fish.

Dynamite caps and fuses were found in his clothing, they said. Campbell, however, reiterated that he did not know the cause of the blast.

Authorities also said his injuries might have been caused by an explosion during the blowing of a safe, and said they would quickly investigate reports of any such blasts in this section.

Campbell's face and neck were seriously lacerated and hospital attaches doubted if he could recover.

PINDLAY, O., June 4.—William Gordon, 50, veteran New York Central Railroad switchman, was dead here today after an accident in the railroad yards where he was employed. Gordon accidentally fell beneath a train and was instantly killed.

DRY MAYOR TAKES NOTES ON WINE MAKING

REIMS, France, June 4.—The ready, bubbling champagne wine of France was the chief item of interest today on the program of the delegation of twenty-one American mayors visiting France as guests of the government.

The mayors spent a large part of the afternoon looking through some of the wine-cellar for which Reims is world famous. They were astounded by the apparent endless rows of bottles carefully arranged on shelves in the subterranean caverns and expressed genuine interest in the various processes of manufacture and ageing.

During the course of the tour, all of the mayors signed their names to a post-card depicting the manufacture of champagne and sent it along to Mayor James J. Walker of New York.

Mayor C. Porter of Los Angeles, whose "bone dry" attitude has aroused considerable comment, was among the most interested members of the party. He took copious notes during a technical explanation of the champagne making process and when asked why he was doing so, replied:

"California makes wine too. I want to compare methods."

When the visit was at an end, the mayors drank a toast to their hosts. Mayor Porter raised his glass to his lips but did not partake of the wine.

VILLAGE MERCHANT IS MYSTERIOUSLY KILLED BY FALSE "CUSTOMER"

Store Owner Lured From Home; Probers Lack Clues

BUCYRUS, O., June 4.—Posing as a customer, a stranger lured Sherman H. Stevens, 65-year-old Tiro feed store operator, from his home late last night, instantly killed him with two revolver shots, and fled without leaving a trace of a clue or a possible explanation for the murder, Crawford County authorities learned today.

Stevens 60-year-old wife, who protested when he left the house to serve the late caller, found his body lying near the store after she heard three revolver shots.

Investigators immediately abandoned a robbery motive for the killing after they found that $65 in cash remained in his clothing untouched by his assailant.

Authorities were mystified, they said, because Stevens, a former Tiro councilman and former member of the village school board, had no known enemies.

Mrs. Stevens said the late caller knocked at the door of their house about a half-hour after her husband closed his store and locked his gasoline pumps, which he operated in connection.

The man, she said, made a bogus request for some gasoline. Although she did not personally see the caller, she did not recognize his voice, and the man was also a stranger to her husband, she indicated.

Stevens did not return from the trip to the store. Several minutes later his wife, alarmed by the report of revolver shots, ran to the store, about 300 feet away, in search of her husband.

With one shot through the heart and another through the abdomen Stevens was found dead on a sidewalk in front of a business place opposite his store. Beside his body lay three used .32 caliber revolver bullets.

Declaring the shooting a "plain case of murder," Sheriff Fred Vollmer began an immediate investigation but would advance no theories as to the cause of the killing.

Tiro residents, trying to find an explanation, recalled today that a party of strangers drove aimlessly up and down village streets yesterday past Stevens' store. They said the persons might have been acquaintances themselves with the surroundings.

Officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Thursday put their final stamp of approval upon plans for the company's pole elimination project in the heart of Xenia's business district.

Actual work is expected to be started with the arrival of new cable before the middle of this month. It is announced.

The schedule originally called for completion of the project by October 1, but H. W. Cleaver, Ohio Bell commercial manager in Xenia, said the construction crew will be able to beat that time.

The pole elimination campaign, in which local utility interests are co-operating, will result in the removal of a network of poles and wires on Main and Detroit Sts. for two squares in each direction from the Main and Detroit St. intersection.

Plans of the Ohio Bell call for removal of poles on Detroit St. between Church and Third Sts., so that the thoroughfare will be cleared, paving the way for installation of a combined boulevard lighting and overhead traffic control system.

Under present plans, the Ohio Bell will install 925 feet of underground conduit, twenty-four poles, about 470 feet of underground cable, and 6,700 feet of aerial cable on Church, Whiteman and Third Sts. When this task is accomplished, the company will remove thirty-one poles, about 1,200 feet of underground cable and 4,200 feet of aerial cable from Detroit St.

What the project actually amounts to is the replacing of used equipment by entirely new equipment over a new route, officials of the company say.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!* Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

The great Lord Tennyson in a beautiful poem refers to a woman's Adam's Apple as "The warm white apple of her throat." Consider your Adam's Apple. Touch it—your Adam's Apple—That is your larynx—your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple you are considering your throat—your vocal chords. Protect the delicate tissues within your throat. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants! Reach for a LUCKY instead. Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette which brings you the added benefit of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process, which includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays. It is this exclusive process that expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple."

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Yea, better is he than both they, which hath not yet been, who hath not seen the evil work that is done under the sun.—Ecclesiastes, iv, 3.

THE RELIGION OF A MODERN LIBERAL

The late Dr. Harrison once said: "Religion means mercy, it means pity, it means love. Can you show me one monument of human service built by those without religion, without faith? to a thousand that I can instance and indicate reared by those who glorify God by serving His children, their brothers. "Religion is a running stream whose movement and progress keep it pure and sweet, a stream that has come down to us out of the misty past. It flows through the realm of the Present; it disappears into the Future. Shall we not add it to our tributary? Shall we not strengthen it with what impulse we can give, if it be only by incarnating and illustrating its value and its virtues—fidelity to it, loyalty to it. This is the one great contribution which, under stress and strain, we can and should make to the life of our age, of all the ages. . . . The faith of our fathers shall not perish; it shall live when I am dead, when you have vanished from the scene. Shall it not live stronger, with warmer glow, with greater power, with more vitality because I have lived, because you have lived?"

TO REGIONS UNKNOWN

Professor Auguste Picard and Professor Charles Kipfer, who recently returned safely to terra firma with their spoils, after a trip ten miles up in the air, performed an exceedingly spectacular feat. But the sensational nature of their accomplishment as explorers was merely an unavoidable incident of the research work in which they were engaged. The flight into the stratosphere was in no sense a stunt. It was a serious search for knowledge in whose pursuit was risked freely, but not recklessly.

The circumstances and conditions of their return from hitherto unexplored heights makes it evident that the two savants knew what they were doing every minute while they were away, and had taken all the precautions against failure or disaster it was possible for them to make. When they stepped from their aluminum gondola and started walking down the mountainside on which it had settled, they made the wild rumors about what had happened to them, or was likely to happen to them, sound rather foolish. Hazards they certainly took, but evidently some of those who sent out wild reports about their chances of getting home safe and sound, were densely ignorant of the conditions under which the flight was being made, or were using vivid imaginations as aids in turning out copy.

Professors Picard and Kipfer report a pleasant and highly profitable excursion without disagreeable features or mishaps of consequence, and it is safe to assume that they have added considerably to the sum of pure knowledge, which in these days generally is transformed into terms of practical knowledge without very much delay. They have been where man never went before and have experienced things man never experienced before. Also, although this probably seems to them incidental, they have made a new and notable contribution to a big mass of evidence that no man exceeds the daring and unflinching heroism of which a scholar or scientist is capable when moved by devotion to the pursuit of knowledge.

TO PRACTICAL PURPOSES

The manner in which certain powers have turned their shares of the Boxer indemnity to practical trade purposes provokes the China Weekly Review to caustic comment. The United States alone returned all of its allotment—and did it without attaching any commercial strings to the money.

After the Boxer trouble in 1900 the treaty powers "financed" China $350,000,000, which was to be paid in installments running until 1940. The American share was approximately $24,500,000. One-half of this sum was credited back to China under the Roosevelt administration and the balance under the Harding administration. The only condition was that the money should be used by China for educational purposes. Then the World War came on. China cancelled her payments to Germany and Austria; and the Allies, as a bribe to China to enter the war on their side, offered her a five-year moratorium on the Boxer debt. After the revolution in Russia the Soviet government, as a sop to China, cancelled the balance of its share of the indemnity. China still owed Great Britain, France, Japan, Belgium and Holland. After the five-year holiday was up they found China disinclined to resume payments.

The altruistic precedent set by the United States, which the Chinese did not fail to keep before the minds of their European and Japanese creditors, worked a partial miracle. All of the creditor nations have agreed to remit to China the balance of their instalments—not one of them has done this without exacting from China a commercial quid pro quo. Great Britain insists that her share shall be used for building railroads, which will provide a market for British equipment. The French share must be used to resuscitate a defunct Sino-French bank. The Dutch allotment is earmarked for certain harbor and reclamation projects in which Dutch subjects are interested. The Italians want theirs expended on steel bridges. The "cultural purpose" to which Japan wants her funds to be put is the development of aviation in China under Japanese auspices. The Belgian fund must be spent on railway material in Belgium.

The China Weekly Review aptly asks whether, if the United States had not already remitted its portion of the indemnity, Mr. Hoover, with these facts before him, would have been as altruistic as his predecessors. At that, we have a feeling that in the long run our disinterested policy will bear the better fruit among a people who have long memories and are not ungrateful or unmindful of favors done them.

A White House communique states that Mr. Hoover and his advisers have been going over the economic situation "and have found many factors that are favorable." The country is less interested in factors than in factories.

We can't understand why General Butler wants a job as senator—if he does. He won't be permitted to explode verbally in the chamber any more than he was permitted to do so over the radio.

The Milwaukee Journal thinks that Mrs. Willebrandt is neither a wet nor a dry by conviction, but "merely a very competent lawyer trying to get along." Maybe that is the reason she manages to fight so well for which ever side she happens to be on.

The Arkansas Gazette says that "another advantage to aviation is that there are no aerial trucks to hog the center of the air lanes." But they will come in time.

If the jazz age has ended, we wish the aftermath would commence to clear up a little and disappear.

CRIME OF YOUTH

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.

Youth has, in a measure, lost its sense of security in a fast-changing society, and "what we need is a quiet affirmation of standards and ideals to give young people something on which to rely and somewhere to start," according to Ada Louise Comstock, member of the National Commission on Law Observation and Enforcement.

Ada may be right; but, taken by and large, why should a generation responsible for the War and the Prohibition of Good Likker, attempt to lord it over Youth by "quiet affirmation" or otherwise?

OLD AND NEW

With Tiger Town's haberdashers this Spring featuring red cravats, lilac-colored shorts, pas-trousers, delirium tremens pajamas and dizzy bordered handkerchiefs, a happy contrast is furnished by a dealer in "Gents' Wear" on lower Eighth Avenue whose show window displays the old-fashioned lightweight full-length drawers, Cal Coolidge nightshirts, celluloid collars and ready-made black satin bow ties that are skewered to the collar-button with a single twist of the wrist.

Democracy dies hard.

HONOR INDEED

Word just comes from Paula Gould, Female Boswell of Sophie Tucker, that America's "Mollie" Mama has quit Ireland and opened at the Holborn Empire, London, for a fourth return engagement this season, where she is at present engaged in the delectable task of breaking her own three previous records established earlier in the year.

Think of it! Before departing from Belfast, where Sophie established a new record for theatre attendance, she week-ended with Sir J. J. and Lady Milbanks at their home in Ballymore, Eustace.

Sophie made such a profound impression on Ireland—according to Paul Gould—that a Belfast business firm presented her, Sophie, with a diamond pendant as a token of their admiration; and Shirley Stables, the most famous stables in Ireland, officially announced at last week's meeting that their newest filly is to be named "Sophie Tucker." . . . They named a cigar after Lillian Russell; a herring after Bismarck; a French bun after Napoleon; but none of them, like Sophie Tucker, ever had an Irish race horse named in their honor.

RUNNING EXPENSES

A run in her stockings may be an annoyance to Mah-dam, but it's a real tragedy to hotel men, managers of several Manhattan hostilities confess. All admit that when an irate customer demands compensation for damages to stockings caught and torn on the furniture, they pay, in amounts variously estimated at from $50 to $500 a year.

THE GOLDEN PEN

Be an author. Easy work, big pay. Last year Harper's Magazine received 25,000 manuscripts, or about 80 a day. It uses about one hundred and seventy-five annually.

The Saturday Evening Post receives about 1,000 a day. And how many of those do you suppose ever reach the eagle eye of George Horace Lorimer?

NIGHTHAWK DIET

New York, it is said, is the only town in the world where at least part of its population eats two breakfasts—one at sunrise before going to bed, and another at sunset just after getting up.

CHAPEAU CHAPPIE

One of the largest of the Fifth Avenue department stores has acquired the services of a male milliner—a languid young American who works with such ease and dexterity that hats seem literally to leap from his hands. Before becoming a milliner he created decorative sets for the theatre.

His models have a decided French flair and young women, also others not so young, are blazing a trail to the millinery department of that particular shop, departing in a benign bask of satisfaction.

UNIQUE AUTHORESS

Susan Glaspell, who was awarded $10,000 by the Pulitzer Prize Committee for "A Doll's House," the "best play of the year," sat the other day gazing out of her hotel window at the swirling traffic. She covered her face with her hands.

"I hope never to see a city more than once a year for a few hours," she declared. "I want to get away from people. I live simply and quietly with my husband in a little farm where no one comes. All I ask of the world is peace to write what I choose. I don't want money."

THOSE TOILING DEBS

The startling discovery has just been made that society girls don't go to work because they are bored with the social whirl.

The Junior Leaguers are lured into punching the time clock because they need the money.

Moreover, it is said, they pinch and scrape to make both ends meet, just like Sadie Ginsburg or Mary Smith.

"I know a lot of girls," said one of these "Laborin' Debs" who holds down a job in a Fifth Avenue department store, "who buy $18.50 party dresses."

"The average person thinks that Park Avenue girls pay big prices for things, but let me tell you that in the last year they've learned, many of them, to shop around in the bargain departments, just like other girls."

The myth about the debs working because they were bored was to be exploded sooner or later. They were being criticized for holding down jobs that other women needed badly—thus we get the truth.

RIGHT DOWN THE MIDDLE OF THE ROAD!

MILLIONAIRE SENATOR PONDER'S OVER PROBLEM OF BREAKING UP WEALTH

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Senator James Couzens of Michigan looked up from the pad on which he had been figuring—figuring out methods of laying a heavier impost upon the estates left by dead multimillionaires, in part to supply the government with needed revenues, in part to break up the great concentrations of wealth which he blames largely for the present economic depression.

"It isn't as simple as it looks," he complained.

The trouble is that aging multimillionaires have a trick of giving their fortunes away to their heirs before they actually die, thus saving their hoards from the inroads of the tax collector. At first thought it may seem as if this dodge could be checkmated by taxing gifts, too—as was done for awhile, in fact; but the law was repealed later.

"Second thought, however," observed the senator, "reveals a weakness in the gift tax. Small gifts, naturally, should not be taxed so heavily, in proportion, as very large ones; any more than small estates should be taxed at the same rate as great ones; it is not desired to prevent a man who is only moderately well-to-do from leaving his family provided for. Now, what is to keep an elderly multimillionaire from breaking one large gift up into a number of small ones—in order to avoid the higher levy?"

That Senator Couzens had not found the answer to this problem when I left him is neither here nor there—the point is: How painful to America's little coterie of multimillionaires must be the spectacle of the richest man in congress (as the Wolverine lawmaker generally is reckoned) racking his brains for an air-tight plan to thwart plutocratic ambitions, which he frankly suspects to found a few score mighty financial dynasties in the country!

As to the national concentration of wealth, the senator calls Secretary of the Treasury Mellon himself to witness that it exists already.

In a recent radio talk the secretary, after reminding his hearers that the government has come to rely upon income taxation for the bulk of its revenues, did indeed direct attention to the mere handful of vast fortunes which pay practically all the incomes taxes. "And if that," says Senator Couzens, "doesn't prove a tremendous concentration of wealth, what does it prove?" (Secretary Mellon, to be sure, intended it to prove that more folk ought to pay taxes.)

"Of course I'm aware," continued the senator, "of the treasury's contention that heavy taxation of big incomes doesn't, in reality, fall upon the big incomes' recipients, because (as argued by the treasury) the latter include their taxes in the prices which they charge the consumers for the various things from which they derive their incomes."

"If that's the case, why does the big income taxpayer howl? If the consumer pays it for him, what does he care how high it is?"

"But I maintain that an income tax can't be passed along."

"The salaried man certainly can't pass his on. Neither can the man with an independent income from some business; competition interferes."

"Suppose 'A' own an apartment house, and operating it economically, makes money on it and has an income tax to pay. Suppose that 'B' operating a similar apartment house adjoining 'A's, is so extravagant that he has no income, hence no tax to pay. Nevertheless, 'A' can't charge more rent than 'B' in order to unload his income tax onto his tenants. If he tries, they'll leave him and go to 'B' for lower rentals."

"A monopoly, it's true," said the Detroitier, "is in a position to hand its tax burden on down the line to its customers."

"However, a monopoly charges all the traffic will bear, anyway. Lowering its taxes will do its patrons no good; the monopoly merely will make that much more money."

"Let income taxation be broadened, so as to reach comparatively small incomes," reasoned the senator, "and I submit that it will be equivalent to a general wage reduction, for most of today's recipients of such incomes are wage or salary earners, and they certainly will get less by whatever is taken away from them in taxes."

It is urged, I know, that the consciousness of taxation's burden on them will make a greater number of voters more insistent than heretofore upon governmental economies.

"But pooh! They may be as insistent as they like; officeholders will pay no attention to them, because they will lack organization."

"If a million were miscellaneous voters want something or other, no politician worries much about them, for they have no cohesive force. If the representatives of 50,000 American Legionnaires present their demands in Washington—ah, yes, that's different; organized strength is listened to."

"But an income taxpayers' league? Consider. A tax probably of $4 or $5 per member! A league assessment of $20 or $25! I doubt it. Without it—no influence whatever!"

"That's why I say this country is run by organized minorities."

Today's Recipes
Luncheon Salad.—One can tomato soup, one cake cream cheese, one-half cup mayonnaise, one green pepper, chopped lettuce, one tablespoon gelatin soaked in one-fourth cup cold water, one-half cup celery, one-fourth cup stuffed olives, chopped. Heat tomato soup to the boiling point. Add gelatin and cheese. When the salad begins to thicken add mayonnaise, celery, green pepper and olives. Mold in individual molds, chill and serve in lettuce, garnishing with a sliced olive.

Stuffed Vegetable Salad.—Three medium sized cucumbers, four tomatoes, four green peppers, one cup cooked diced chicken, one tablespoon minced watercress, one-fourth cup diced celery, one-fourth cup diced cucumber, two tablespoons sour cream, one tablespoon onion, one-eighth teaspoon thyme, four radishes, sliced without peeling; mayonnaise, salad greens. Pare cucumbers and cut in thirds, hollow out centers, making baskets. Cut the tomatoes in half and scoop out the centers. Cut peppers in half lengthwise and remove all membranes and seeds. Allow one cucumber basket, one-half tomato and one-half pepper for each serving. Fill the baskets with salad made of the remaining ingredients. Arrange each basket on a crisp lettuce leaf. Top with mayonnaise and a few capers. You can serve rolled cream cheese sandwiches with this, and a whole luncheon is the result. Tuna fish or crab meat or other meats may be substituted for the chicken.

EARTH ORIGIN OF MOON SUPPORTED BY MOON'S DENSITY

By Arthur Dev. Carpenter

An interesting bit of indirect evidence that the moon was once a part of the earth: The density (mass contained in a unit volume) of the moon is 3.33 times that of water. This is almost identical with the density of the earth's rocks underlying the thin outer "scum" or layer. The density of the earth's deep core is very much greater than this. If the moon was at one time a part of the earth, and was hurled off because of rapid rotation of the earth, it would be expected that the part would break off to be the outer basic rocks leaving the deep denser core behind.

Dosing with Cathartics not Helpful

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The person with colitis or irritable colon has not infrequently given it to himself. The inside of the colon or large intestine is quite sensitive and easily injured; it will not stand prolonged insult by mechanical irritation or chemicals, whether the chemicals be epsom salts or oil in enemas. Yesterday we pointed out the possibility of excessive douching of the large intestine, especially when carried out by the patient on his own body without medical supervision.

Today we discuss an even commoner habit which is quite as fraught with potential harm—the habitual dosing with cathartics. Perhaps the best way to make this point clear is to recite the history of an actual patient. A man aged 40 came to a clinic complaining of discomfort all over his abdomen, and constipation. Curiously, when he was questioned about his constipation, he said that he had several evacuations a day, but that what he meant by the word "constipation" was that he never felt as if his intestines were entirely empty. He had been in the habit of dosing himself with epsom salts for years.

At first he felt relief from the use of the salts, but a year before consulting the clinic doctor he began to feel the sensation of not being cleaned out and increased his dosage of salts until he was taking some every two hours in the daytime and was consuming the staggering amount of nearly a half a pound a day. The insides of his intestines were red and spongy and covered with small white spots, probably beginning ulcers.

On treatment which consisted in taking him entirely away from the epsom salts and giving him a bland diet of milk and eggs and vegetable purées, he was restored to normal feelings of health and comfort.

Such a story, which is by no means as uncommon as it sounds as if it should be, shows how such excessive anxiety to keep the colon empty actually leads to colitis. In fact, the cathartic habit, and the emema habit, and roughage diets are the commonest causes of colitis.

There is one good rule for those who have the necessity for a cathartic. That is, take a cathartic only on the night of the day when you do not intend to evacuate. There is no question that many people do need a cathartic occasionally, or even fairly regularly, but it is very easy to slip into the habit of taking too much, and of taking a cathartic too often. For several reasons, perhaps the best cathartic to take for regular use is fluid extract of cascara sagrada. Being in liquid form, the exact dosage can be measured more accurately than if in pill form. For some people one pill is not enough and two pills are too many. With liquid cascara and a dropper you can get the exact number of drops which will produce a formed evacuation without griping and irritation. For you it may be 21 drops, for somebody else in the household 19 drops, or 28 drops; but in every case the individual can get the exact dose needed. It should be taken at night as it requires about 8 hours to work. And it should be taken only on the night of the day when there has been no evacuation.

Editor's Note: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clending can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O. Man and Girl Victims of Love

"Love is no respecter of persons," a correspondent states. And she's right. And she might have added, and no respecter of circumstances.

He also makes it very difficult at times to know what is right and to do it if one knows. And yet, what is life without Love? Who would forego its joys, even though such foregoing made life smooth and easy?

Suppose the case of a man estranged from a wife for some years. Said wife an invalid. He meets a girl and both fall in love. He is paying his wife's bills and won't divorce her because he would feel he was the "ace of cads" if he did.

Both man and the girl he loves are well known and have excellent reputations. What can they do? Can they even be seen going about together, getting some consolation in one another's companionship? They have asked my advice.

Anxious and Worried: Your problem is indeed difficult to solve. Does the chap's wife love him? What would her reaction be, I wonder, to your love for another, provided he promised to continue his financial assistance? If she cares for him, that fact, coupled with her illness, would indeed make it difficult, if not wrong, to divorce her. But if she doesn't care for him, if he is as indifferent to him as he is to her, wouldn't it be better for them to be quietly divorced, with the understanding that he would pay her bills, as she is helpless? I admire your friend's feeling that he must stand by his wife in her trouble, even though he no longer loves her. But if you go about together, even though you are chaperoned, you will have to face the fact that people will gossip. Your reputations will suffer, as surely as you are alive.

In circumstances such as that he can't bring himself to divorce his wife, the only thing to do is to meet in company occasionally, and try to be patient until something happens to change things. "It's a long lane that has no turning," you know.

"Despondent." "Oh, these husbands who think their wives are not entitled to have a cent for themselves, and who squander money on their own luxuries and then scold because there isn't enough left! I suppose they are offset, however, by the wives whose husbands turn over the pay envelope to them and they spend unwisely. Could you earn a little money by taking care of neighbors' children occasionally when they want to go out? By doing a bit of sewing for such neighbors, or helping them when they have company by baking, etc., in your own home?

Could you write verses for printing on postcards for special occasions? Do embroidery, make hook rugs, quilts, embroidered or hem table and bed linen or towels? If none of these is in your line, or you think they wouldn't pay in your town, haven't you some special talent with which you could make a little money? Something that you can do better than anyone else?

Atomizer New Beauty Accessory

By GLADYS GLAD

Atomizers are certainly playing a large part in feminine beauty rites these days! There are atomizers for brilliantizing the hair, atomizers for applying waving lotion, perfume, atomizers for spraying powder evenly over the neck and arms. And the latest wrinkle is an atomizer for applying lotions to the face. Many of the manufacturers of beauty accessories are now bringing these "lotion atomizers" to the fore, and a number of women have already started to use them.

An atomizer is, in my opinion, an excellent device for applying lotions to the face. But don't in your zeal, try to use a perfume atomizer for this purpose. You'll come to grief if you do. The openings in the perfume atomizers are too small, and become clogged easily. If that should occur, you'd probably become disgusted, and tell yourself that it is a stupid idea anyway.

The advantage of the atomizer is that it saves additional rubbing of the face. And every device that keeps us from rubbing the face saves off the wrinkles. Massage, which was originally designed for reductions, usually doesn't add to one's youthfulness when applied to the face. It breaks down the fatty tissues in the face and it's the fat that keeps the face youthful and softly-rounded. Unnecessary rubbing of the face may stretch the delicate, elastic tissues, and cause the skin to sag in wrinkled looseness.

If your face lotion poses any bleaching properties, and you apply it with an atomizer, be sure to cover your eyebrows before you begin spraying the lotion over your forehead. Use small pads of cotton, or a thick coating of cold cream or vaseline. If the lotion gets into the eyebrows, it may bleach them, and make them unattractively light. It's an excellent idea, also, to have the hair-line covered by a towel or a "beauty bandana" of cloth or rubber. For if your hand should slip, or your arm be poor, some of the lotion might land in your hair. And the effects would be far from beneficial.

The new lotion atomizers are not only very useful, but are ornamental as well. And I think that everything in our beauty equipment should be as pretty as possible. For attractive accessories tend to encourage their own use and help to overcome that strange forgetfulness—or laziness—with which some women are afflicted.

WELFARE WORK IS PLANNED BY LEGION

Plans for additional far-reaching child welfare work were started by Joseph P. Foody Post, American Legion, Tuesday night.

Inspirational talks were given by John H. Kreher, former superintendent of recreation of Pittsburgh, Pa., and a veteran Scout with nineteen years' service in Scout work, and John Leonard Trunnell, newly-appointed Scoutmaster of the post's Boy Scout Troop.

Trunnell is a veteran Scout with eighteen years' experience. The post went on record as standing behind its proposed Scout program, both morally and financially. Another important phase of child welfare work of the post was revealed when the post voted to give financial aid to children of Greene County in need of treatment for defective vision. Twelve children of school age will be equipped with corrective glasses.

Mrs. Pearl Wittenmyer, Greene County health nurse, made a plea for cooperation of the post in the work of reclaiming vision for the youth of Greene County. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

SOIL TESTING

Written for Central Press
By DR. KARL F. KELLERMAN

Bureau of Plant Industry
U. S. Department of Agriculture

Although most garden soils are neither very acid nor very alkaline, and consequently are suitable for most flowers, the gardener will do well to find out the soil reaction and if necessary modify his soil to meet the needs of his plants, horticulturists of the Bureau of Plant Industry advise.

Dr. Karl F. Kellerman

Unfavorable for begonia, gladiolus, rose, zinnia and similar plants. Alkali in the soil rarely presents a problem for the gardener except in some of the western plains and desert regions.

If the gardener needs a more acid soil he may apply aluminum sulfate, powdered tannic acid, peat moss, or pine or oak sawdust that has been decaying a few years. He can neutralize acid soils with lime. The amount to be applied depends on the amount of acidity.

For both gardens and lawns, lime is of little value if merely strewn on the surface. It should be raked into the soil. Laying on the surface it changes to a less soluble form. One mistaken belief is that moss indicates an acid soil. Instead, it usually indicates lack of fertility or poor drainage. Another mistake is to burn over the ground to liberate fertilizer. This causes loss of humus, and destroys beneficial soil bacteria.

The simplest method of testing soil acidity is by the use of litmus paper. If greater accuracy is required the experimenter will do well to secure one of the simpler sets of test solutions for the hydrogen-ion determination.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute.

GOOD MORNING, MRS. GREEN, GOING SHOPPING?

—NO, I'M GOING TO SEE THE MAN WHO SOLD ME MY WASHER. IT WORKS FINE—BUT I CAN'T GET THE CLOTHES WHITE ENOUGH

—I KNOW WHAT HE'LL TELL YOU—CHANGE TO RINSO, THE HARD-WATER SOAP

—WELL, I'LL ASK HIM ANYWAY. I WANT TO BE SURE

NEXT WASHDAY

—I'M GLAD YOU STOPPED IN. JUST LOOK AT THIS SNOWY WASH. YOU WERE RIGHT ABOUT RINSO LAST WEEK

—YES—THOSE WASHING MACHINE DEALERS KNOW WHAT THEY'RE DOING WHEN THEY RECOMMEND RINSO

THE GRANULATED HARD-WATER SOAP

Rinso
for whiter washes

AND
"Creamy, lasting suds," says Mrs. P. D. Fawcett of Jamestown

"I simply use Rinso, the hard-water soap in my washer. Its richer suds loosen dirt—get clothes snowy and colored things almost unbelievably brighter. It's such an economical soap, too. Without the help of a softener, I get lots of creamy, lasting suds that are marvelous for dishwashing, too."

MRS. P. D. FAWCETT,
Jamestown, Ohio.

And try it for tub washing!

Of course this hard-water soap is marvelous in washers; the makers of 40 famous washers recommend it. But just try Rinso for tub washing! Soaks out dirt—saves scrubbing—saves the clothes! Cap for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. Lively, lasting suds! No softener needed. Get the BIG package.

TUNE IN on RinsoTalkies, "What Happened to Jane", Tues. & Thurs. 4:30 p. m. Station WSAI.

Morning, noon, or night, the Service Department of The Dayton Power and Light Company stands ready to help you. Interruptions of electrical service in the home is a serious inconvenience. We are prepared to make such delays as short as possible.

If you blow out a fuse at high noon, in the evening or in the wee hours of the morning, call our Service Department. That is what it is there for...to cheerfully answer your calls for service. And of course this applies to any other difficulty that may be causing an interruption in your service.

In addition, do you know that we offer what is best known as a minor repair service for the adjustment or repair of electrical appliances, lamps, wiring, etc.? This, too, is free for your use and the service continues during the evening hours.

These things are as much a part of your electric service as the actual current that flows to your home from our generators. Consider our Service Department your servant, ready to help you at any time.

Swims for Life

Hilda Morrison, (above) 18-year-old Cherrydale, Va., girl, is safe at home after a harrowing experience with the wind, waves and cold of the Potomac River. Hilda and a companion, Joseph Nevitt, set off on a canoe trip. The craft capsized and both began swimming for their lives. After combating the waves and elements for eight hours, Miss Morrison landed on the cliffs at Wakefield, Va., and collapsed from fatigue. Nevitt was drowned.

WELL KNOWN HORSE TRAINER IS CALLED

Death removed a widely known harness horse trainer of Greene County when Orlando Worthington, 58, died at his home on E. Church St. at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

Mr. Worthington, who formerly lived in Jamestown and was well known throughout the county as a trainer, had been in declining health for the last three years.

Surviving is one sister, Miss Myrtle Jones, Cedarville, and five half-brothers, Sherman and William Jones, both of Cedarville; Wilbur Jones, Toledo, O.; Bert and Albert Jones, both of Xenia.

The body was removed to the J. C. Johnson funeral home, where friends may call after 4:30 p. m. Thursday. Funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at the Zion Baptist Church in Jamestown with interment in the Jamestown cemetery.

ZIMMERMAN

The Faithful Worker's Sunday School class had a pleasant and profitable meeting at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Coy near Byron Thursday evening, May 21.

The president H. C. Haverstick conducted the business session. Whether to drop the Sunday evening Junior and Adult Departmental meetings, or how to increase interest and attendance was discussed. Among the thought provoking opinions given, was that of Mrs. F. Couser, "Would we as a church, have the influence in the community if we dropped these meetings. That there are always a few faithful ones, and might they not get something from these services that would help them to be a benefit to church and community?"

A motion by Mrs. J. Coy that we continue them for another month and try to increase the interest and attendance, was adopted.

A program, as follows, was given:

Two piano solos, Alice Coy; violin and violin duo, Lawrence and Alice Coy; dialog, "What the Little Girl Said," Thelma Stewart and Mrs. H. M. Stewart; violin solo, Alice Coy, Mrs. J. Coy, accompanist.

A plant guessing contest in charge of Mrs. Stewart was won by Miss Catherine Wolfe. First prize (a bunch of perennial plants) and Mrs. Andy O'Hara, booby prize (a bunch of onions) who were the lucky ones in drawing for the prizes. Miss Wolfe, Mrs. O'Hara, Friend Couser, Miss Leona Koogler, Ted Miller being tied for first prize.

Refreshments of sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee were served. The delicious doughnuts and coffee were made and served by the hostess.

Attending were Rev. and Mrs. Eldemiller, Mr. and Mrs. Coy, Lawrence and Alice; Mason Aleshire, Russell Zimmerman, Mrs. Nettie Moler, Mrs. C. Zimmerman, Mrs. P. J. Barron, Miss Julia Lantz, Mrs. Lewis Bailey, H. C. Haverstick, Mrs. Harlan Coy and daughter, Marcella; Mrs. Andy O'Hara, Mrs. Stewart, Thelma and Nadine; Mr. and Mrs. Friend Couser, Faith, Don and Alice; Mrs. Lester Lehman, Mrs. Clistic Sipe, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bear, Vera and Marilyn.

Visitors present were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wolf, Catherine and Elmer; Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Miller, Marion and Warren; Misses Leonie, Louise and Jonas Koogler, Merlin Eldemiller, Bernard Coy, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Coy, Howard Ashbaugh, Misses Mary Haverstick, Frances O'Hara, Mrs. Charles Lehman, Roger Harner, Ted Miller, Harlan Coy.

The following are seriously ill:

at this writing: Horace Ferguson, at his home at Shoup's Station; Mrs. Gilbert Lictliler.

Mrs. D. Trubee is improving slowly having sat up a short time Saturday, May 23, the first time during a fifty-three day's illness with lung complication.

Mrs. Newton Coy is now able to be around after a backset following an operation at Miami Valley hospital, by Dr. Marcellus Coy.

The Community Club held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Alvah Stine, with the president, Mrs. Crawford Coy presiding. Mrs. Coy had arranged a special program in honor of Mother's Day. Selections were read by Mrs. L. Bailey, Mrs. Stine and Mrs. Lehman.

Club voted to furnish zinnia seed and cosmos to the children of the community entering flower contest, and to hold the annual flower show in September. The contest is in charge of Mrs. Trehame, Miss Lida Ferguson and Mrs. Lawrence Brill.

A rose contest introduced by the president was won by Mrs. Stewart.

Mrs. Coy also arranged a pretty candle lighting feature in honor of the mothers present. The guests were seated around a long table for the delicious refreshments which were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Trehame invited the club to meet at her home, June 4.

Present were Mrs. Trehame, Mrs. Charles Lehman, Mrs. Lester Lehman, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Alfred Snart and daughter, Phyllis Anne; Mrs. Smith of near Eaton; Miss Ferguson, Mrs. L. Brill, Mrs. L. N. Kable, Mrs. Barron, Miss Lantz, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. William Leban, Mrs. Coy, Mrs. Stine and Mrs. Sturgeon.

William Titlow of Columbus and C. R. Maxton of Dayton, visited their cousin, Mrs. D. Trubee. Mr. and Mrs. Horace Deger and daughter, Wanda Jean, of Harshman, visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Koogler.

During the children's song period at Sunday School, the following fourth grade girls sang a special number: Helen Koogler, Helen Croager, Gertrude Jenkins, Edith Irvin, Jane Belden, Eva Sinart.

At another time Garnet Moore, Jane Belden and Eva Sinart gave a special song.

These numbers and others were taught by their school teacher, Miss Thelma Turner for the occasion. Special numbers in honor of

CHAPTER 57

FRAZIER came into the office before noon, as Mary expected he would. She was ready and waiting for him.

"Mary!" his hands clasped both of hers and he looked into her face earnestly, for a speechless moment, as if he were searching for something that he wanted very much to find there. "It's so wonderful to see you again. Are you just a little glad to have me home again?"

"More than a little," she replied, reflecting that he must not know just why she was glad, and trying to sound sincere.

"Is that true, Mary?" He was incredulous, inarticulate with joy. "Well, how shall we celebrate? I can't tell you here and now, all I want to say."

"Anything you wish, Martin."

"Say, that was a good little idea of mine—going away, after all, now wasn't it? Been thinking things over, Mary?"

"A great deal," she confessed. "Well, I have, too—only I've been thinking the same things over and over. You know what they are, but I'll tell you again tonight. How about a little private dining room for the evening, where we can talk things over?"

"If you wish, that would be nice." Mary felt like a person who is compelled to sign his own death warrant. Was it only this morning that she had thought the end to all confusion and difficulty had been reached? Only a few hours ago that she had thought, with a vast relief and a little pity, how she would meet Frazier with the news of her engagement to Dick Baldwin?

Indeed, she had slipped Dick's ring into her pocket, and was posing as the same free girl whom Martin had left a few weeks before. Mary felt like a traitor.

Dick telephoned in the afternoon. His voice was kind and solicitous. "How is my precious girl today? Happy?"

"I could be—except for the market, Dick." Which was the truth. The condition of the market had caused all this trouble for her.

"I told you I would give you trouble and loss with that stock. It grieves me so."

"Dear, I wish you wouldn't think of it. Everything is low—it can't last forever. It isn't as if I owed money on the stock. I can hold it until the market picks up."

"But it might never. That stock may continue to drop until the company fails."

"Well, let's forget it, honey. Think of something very pleasant, like seeing you tonight. How about it?"

Mary was wretched at having to deceive him so. "Oh, Dick, dear, I have to work late. Foster is like a lion in a cage these days, and if I don't stand by, he may break loose," she tried to speak in jest.

"Sure, I know. When, then, to-morrow?"

"Call me to-morrow, or drop into the office, will you, dear? I'll let you know then. My life isn't my own these days, really."

"Of course not. You belong to me," he laughed. "Okay, honey, until to-morrow."

The day wore on, as sad and tragic days do, with relentless and resolute accent upon every minute of time. Foster was in no mood for work, the market was slow and business dull; so Mary accomplished very little work. Yet she felt more exhausted than after many days when she had broken her own speed record.

For more than one reason, she was glad that Martin had suggested a private room for dinner. She could not change to a dinner room for the evening, for one thing. She also thought that it might be easier to say to Frazier what she had to say, with a secure privacy. Then, there was the danger of being seen by others—Dick particularly—if she dined in public with Martin. It would be all right, when she could give some explanation to Dick. But if he happened to see her and misunderstood—that would be too terrible.

The room in which they had dinner looked as if Martin had spent the whole day planning for the evening. There were flowers on the table, flowers for Mary, bonbons on the coffee table before the fire, an elaborate menu.

A radio had been brought into the room to provide orchestra music during dinner. It was all very domestic and cozy.

"How do you like it, Mary?" he asked anxiously.

"Everything is lovely, Martin. You do everything well," she smiled appreciation.

"Well, when a man has a hunch that the dream of his life is about to come true, he gets so confused, he doesn't know quite what he is doing. But there, I am getting ahead of the program. Shall we have dinner before we talk about it?"

"I believe men are in a better mood after they have dined," Mary tried to be gay. She wanted so desperately to believe that she was not being a hypocrite, a traitor and a cheat; tried to convince herself that, rather, she was being a martyr for a splendid cause, a savior of life and happiness and a loyal servant.

"Tell me where all you have been, and what you have seen this time," she tried to be interested, although she did not care in the least where he had been, or what he had done.

"Well, not to London to see the queen—but I met a few gangsters in Chicago, also some bankers and friends there. Then I went down to Texas and inspected a few oil wells. But what have you been doing, cher—waiting for me to come home?"

"Just the same old routine—and not very pleasant, at that. Well-made Products disappointed all of us, didn't it?"

"Oh, yes, but it will come back in time," she assuredly.

"You can afford to be optimistic, Martin, because you are secure. Not everyone is so fortunate."

Mary slipped ice water to moisten her lips and tongue, then she began, "I've been wondering, Martin, whether you would—do something—for me?"

He looked puzzled, a little surprised. "Why, of course. You know I would do anything in the world for you, Mary."

"Well, you may not think so, when you know what it is. But I might tell you about it—as much as I can—and you may do as you please. Do you trust me, Martin?"

He was quite astonished by this time. "Absolutely. You are as square as a forty-five degree angle."

"Do you have any faith in my business judgment?"

"Well, now, how many times have I signed a check on the strength of your advice? What is it, Mary? You check one hundred per cent with me, and you know it."

"I need to raise three hundred thousand dollars some way, and I know no one who has that much money in the world, unless it is you," she began abruptly.

Frazier was not quite prepared for that. He stared at her in amazement. Had she said one thousand dollars he would have laughed at her solemnity. It was a moment before he spoke. Then he smiled indulgently. "Well, now, I didn't know my little girl thought in such figures as that. Tell me about it, dear."

"I can't tell you much, Martin. I only can assure you that I am being very sane and sensible and that you would be making a very safe investment, if you could spare that much cash to me for—not more than a month, possibly a week or two."

He really was quite amused. "What did you do, darling—buy the whole issue of Well-made Products on margin and now you can't hold it? This is good. I'd like to have the whole story. But you know I've been telling you for months that I would back you if you wanted to try your hand in the market. You went in steeper than I would have expected, though."

"It is no joke, really, Martin. I never was more serious in my life. I know the whole thing must sound absurd to you—it does to me, for that matter. But there is so much at stake."

The despair in her face and voice was proof of that, yet he was more than a little perplexed.

"I have no security to offer you," Mary continued quietly. "If you think you could help me, you will just have to believe in me."

"I would not ask for security from you—unless you can give me your own precious self. I want you more than you could possibly want the three hundred thousand. And you would be more than worth that price to me."

FARMER ENDS LIFE

BATAVIA, O., June 4.—Ill health was the only reason relatives could give today for the suicide of John Innis, of Loveland, 70-year-old farmer who ended his life by hanging. Sam Innis, his son, found the body in a deserted barn on the farm.

Jesse Crawford at Home

Jesse Crawford, well known organist, can't seem to stay away from keyboards. When he isn't playing his organ, he busies himself typing out lyrics for new compositions. He is shown here with his daughter and Mrs. Crawford, who, incidentally, is an organist of some repute herself. She, too, goes on the air.

The Theater

Now "East Lynne," a melodrama that blazed its tear-swept way across the footlight horizon back in Civil War days, comes back on stage and screen to intrigue ultra-modern audiences.

For the benefit of those who expect to see the opus here in both media, it may be interesting to know that this is the seventeenth anniversary of the play, which was written by Mrs. Henry Wood in 1861.

Mrs. Ellen Price (Henry) Wood, an invalid most of her life after marriage, wrote practically all her novels and short stories in a reclining chair. "East Lynne" was

Hall in New York March 23, 1863. It was followed by presentations at the Boston Museum with Kate Denin as Isabel in 1865 and Boston Theater, Boston, in 1869 with Mrs. D. P. Bowers featured. The first English version was played in Birmingham September 16, 1869. The play has also been widely imitated, notably by a play called "Miss Merton" first produced in Paris in 1869.

Despite the studio protestations of the end of gang pictures, the underworld still creeps into many stories. James Whitaker has sold a story to Radio called "The Chicago Dove" in which Mary Astor will star with Ricardo Cortez as her support. The story deals with a gangster who aids a girl to become an opera singer and who eventually is put on the spot because he double crossed the gang to supply her with money. George Archambaud will direct.

Notwithstanding its success in the United States and other countries, Mrs. Wood did not receive a penny from the publishers who issued the novel outside of England nor did she receive anything from those who adapted it for the stage, due to the fact there were no binding copyright laws.

As a result of this abuse of publication a movement was started shortly before Mrs. Wood's death in 1887 to devise protection for literary work in this country and British possessions resulting in the international copyright law of 1890.

The first dramatic adaptation of "East Lynne" is that of Clifton W. Talcott, a Brooklyn playwright. Lucille Western a popular American star, was the first actress to play the leading role of Isabel and the initial performance of the Talcott version was given at Tripler's

MANY STUDENTS NOT ABSENT NOR TARDY AT XENIA SCHOOLS

One hundred and eighty-four pupils of the student enrollment of more than 2,000 in Xenia public schools were neither absent nor tardy for the school year 1930-31 which ended last week, according to a report of Superintendent of Schools Louis Hammerle, Thursday.

Several other students in the schools were not absent for the year, although tardy a few times, and others were never tardy during the year, but were absent a few days. This is a fairly good record considering the long epidemic of mumps and other diseases that hit Xenia during the winter and spring months. The following students were neither absent nor tardy:

Gun Talks for Her

A shotgun is all primed to talk for Mrs. Augusta Hank when it comes to negotiations with a power company which wants to string some high-tension wires across her property northeast of Joliet, Illinois. Mrs. Hank, shown above with her trusty weapon, is standing pat in her determination not to permit the public utility to cross her land.

IN SPRING GIRL'S FANCY TURNS TO THOUGHTS OF HER TROUSSEAU

"In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," says the poet. A girl's thoughts, at the same time, are quite apt to turn—and not lightly—to thoughts of her trousseau. Pictured is the latest in wedding gowns and the pajama ensemble and swimming suit which the bride is likely to consider important parts of said trousseau. The bridal gown has a bodice of satin with overdress and capelet of chantilly lace with sprays of orange blossoms and a deep flounce of tulle. The young lady, left, is wearing a pair of formal teatime pajamas of white satin with metallic jacket, next to her is a suit in red Paisley model in Russian style. - The very latest in swim suits are pictured right. They are named the "sun air" suits in two-piece style with pleated trunks and backless bibs held in place with straps. These styles were shown at a society fashion show in St. Petersburg, Fla.
